

Greater Slash In Relief Fund Is Proposed as Hearings Open

Congress Hears Talk of One-Third Reduc- tion in Total

NO QUICK DECISION

Bankhead Thinks Ac- tion Will Wait Roosevelt Return

Washington—(AP)—Secretary Ickes asked a house appropriations subcommittee today to approve extension of the active life of the public works administration for two years more.

The PWA chief appeared at closed hearings on a measure to permit the federal works agency to use its $150,000,000 revolving fund to finance new projects during the next two years beginning July 1. Unless congress acts, PWA will expire June 30 except for the liquidation of projects already under construction.

The PWA bill was considered by the subcommittee preliminary to hearings on the relief-deficiency appropriations bill, which Representative Woodrum (D-Va.) has suggested might be trimmed $500,000,000 to reduce relief spending for next year to an even $1,000,000,000.

Washington—(AP)—The start of house hearings on a relief-deficiency money bill brought talk today of cutting one-third from the $150,000,000 recommended by President Roosevelt for 1938 relief spending.

Representative Woodrum (D-Va.), acting chairman of the subcommittee holding the hearings, said he believed congress' present economy mood might result in such a cut.

There was no prospect, however, of early action. Speaker Bankhead expressed the belief a final decision on the amount would be held in abeyance until the president returns from his fishing trip.

"I am sure the president will be glad to see congressional leaders and work out some method satisfactory to all by which we can achieve the necessary economies," Bankhead said.

Relief spending has caused the bulk of the federal deficits. This year's spending has been at a rate indicating the total will be nearly $2,000,000,000.

Hopkins' Statement

Some critics of the size of federal relief expenditures have contended state and local governments were not bearing their share.

Works Progress Administrator Harry Hopkins, replying to this argument said in a statement yesterday that state and local governments spent $1,245,000,000 for relief in 1936 and would spend more this year.

While economy discussion centered for the present on relief spending, congressional leaders looked for other sources of potential reduction.

Woodrum wrote heads of 32 independent federal agencies asking them to re-examine their budgets and help congress cut at least 10 per cent from their requested appropriations.

A flat 10 per cent cut and a proposal to impound 15 per cent of appropriations were the two major suggested approaches to the economy problem, but there was talk of giving each individual item consideration.

Woodrum said this was "the proper way of approaching a reduction in public expenditures."

Senator Borah (R-Idaho) asserted a horizontal cut might "injure desirable propositions" and added that such cuts "never last—they soon are modified or changed."

The split and the two suggestions is chiefly between the house and the senate.

WISCONSIN COSTS

Washington—(AP)—Works Progress Administrator Harry Hopkins reported today Wisconsin state and local governments spent more than three times as much for relief and work programs last year than they did in 1933.

The expenditures included money for direct and work relief; civil work; administration, WPA, and public works administration but not social security costs.

Wisconsin and its sub-divisions spent $68,228,626 in the last four years, starting with $3,768,712 in 1933, which increased progressively until the 1936 expenditure amounted to $28,414,530.

Cashiers Would Be Happy!

Sales taxes were dropped in five of 28 states when the original statutes expired. In 10 states (Washington not included), the levies come to their legal end next year, and may not be renewed in some of them. Among reasons is difficulty in accurately predicting yield; revenues collected ranged from 61 to 211 per cent of anticipated yield. There is no sales tax on Want Ads—and how they do yield! This one, for example:

Edward Speeding Toward Wallis as British Court Makes Her Divorce Final

GRANTED DIVORCE

Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson today was granted a final divorce decree by a British court, clearing away the last obstacle to her marriage to Edward of Windsor, former king of England. He left Austria today, and was due to arrive tomorrow at Tours.

Salzburg, Austria—(AP)—Edward of England, loaded down with edelweiss, suitcases and smiles, traveled toward France and Wallis Simpson tonight on the Arlberg express. He is due at Tours tomorrow.

He was as happy as a schoolboy. It was as if he were again the care-free prince of Wales the world knew so well.

In his arms when he boarded the express after a motor ride from St. Wolfgang were two packages for Mrs. Simpson, freed from her second marriage today by the London divorce court.

One of the packages was crammed with edelweiss, the white mountain flower that grows on the most dangerous crags.

In the other package was a dirndl, the Austrian name for the colorful costume worn by the peasant women.

Seventeen suitcases were scattered helter-skelter through the duke's private car.

He can't leave 22 weeks ago in voluntary exile.

At his remodeled boarding house, Appenbach, the duke learned late this morning that a London divorce court had freed Mrs. Simpson absolutely from Ernest Aldrich Simpson, her second husband. The announcement of his decision to depart followed.

Edward heard of the issuance of the London decree just as he was getting into his mountain-climbing boots for a short excursion into the hills.

He flung them aside and made immediate arrangements to go to France. All his affairs here were in shape that he could.

London—(AP)—The precise machinery of the British divorce court clicked off Wallis Warfield Simpson's final divorce decree today, and Edward of Windsor, the man who deserved a throne for "The Woman I Love," lost not a minute in closing the gap between St. Wolfgang, Austria, and the French Riviera.

They are free to marry now whenever they choose—perhaps in the chapel of the Chateau de Candé where Mrs. Simpson has been staying—but probably not until after the pageantry of state that will put Edward's crown on the head of his brother, King George VI, nine days hence.

These swift developments this morning and this noon brought ever closer the union of the lonely duke and the Baltimore-born woman.

Mechanic Tells About Shooting

Testifies He Kept Quiet in Fear He Would Be Killed

Washington—(AP)—Kelly Fox, a garage mechanic from Harlan, Ky., told senate investigators today he saw Deputy Sheriff Frank White "shoot up" the home of a union organizer on Feb. 2.

A 19-year-old boy was killed during the shooting.

Fox, 29, testified before the senate civil liberties committee that he never had reported he was an eyewitness of the incident "because I didn't want those fellows to kill me, too."

While a deputy paid by the Harlan sheriff's department has been identified by half a dozen other committee witnesses as the leader in assaults on United Mine Workers members in Harlan county.

Fox told investigators he saw White and two other men he could not recognize halt their car on the night of the shooting before the home of Marshall A. Musick, Baptist preacher and union organizer.

"Two fellows started shooting out of the window of the car," he said, "and after a few shots they drove off with two more automobiles."

Musick had testified earlier that his son, Bennett, was killed and his wife and another son were wounded by some of the 14 bullets that tore through the walls of his cabin.

2 Financiers Face Hearings In Tax Action

Pierre S. DuPont and John J. Raskob Before Appeals Board

'WASH SALES' BASIS Accused of Transferring Stock to Establish Losses for 1929

New York—(AP)—Two of the nation's biggest industrialists and financiers, Pierre S. DuPont and John J. Raskob, appeared before the United States Board of Tax Appeals today, on a charge that they engaged in fictitious stock sales to each other to establish losses in their 1929 income tax.

DuPont and Raskob were business associates for many years and two of the leaders in the organization of American Liberty League.

Richard L. Disney, a member of the United States board of Tax Appeals, presided. The two multimillionaires sat together.

The DuPont case came up first. It was expected that it would last several days. The cases have been in adjudication for many months.

The government charges DuPont owes an extra assessment of $617,316 and Raskob $1,026,340 in their 1929 tax.

It contends the two financiers sold stock back and forth—known as "wash" sales—at losses, to establish deductible losses for their income taxes.

Chief Counsel Mason B. Leming, of the bureau of internal revenue, charged that DuPont and Raskob entered into an agreement in November, 1929, whereby they would sell these stocks to each other and buy them back at the same price later.

Tried To Help Market

The alleged "wash sales" came after the Wall Street panic of 1929. The crash in the market was brought into the hearing by James S. Y. Ivins of Washington, chief counsel for DuPont.

"Bankers and wealthy investors," Ivins said, "were seeking to bolster the stock market and prevent the market from going lower."

Ivins said DuPont was "trying to sustain the market and stop the panic" and had authorized the Bankers' Trust company in New York to buy stock for him to hold up their values.

The amount included in this authorization, Ivins said, was "several millions."

Ivins said Raskob and DuPont had "losing positions" in certain blocks of stock and sold them to each other to avoid "dumping" them on the market.

These sales established heavy losses which were deducted in the 1929 returns. The blocks were repurchased again in January, 1930.

Pope Suffers Setback In His Convalescence

Castel Gandolfo, Italy—(AP)—Pope Pius has suffered a marked setback from the period of convalescence after his winter illness, prelates said today.

The pontiff was too tired to grant audiences today and rested in the apartment of his summer residence here, receiving his secretary briefly for a few reports.

His aids asserted a noticeable loss in strength was apparent since he resumed public audiences at the Vatican several weeks ago.

Because of this, ceremonies for the beatification of Queen Maria Christina of the two Sicilies Thursday are to be held privately.

File Objections to Probation of Estate

An objection was filed in county court at Waupaca this afternoon to the petition for probate of the estate of William H. Hatten, wealthy New London lumberman who died recently, which was filed by Helen Marie Hatten and other Hatten heirs, by the Woodin heirs who claim the estate on the grounds that Mr. Hatten had been legally adopted by the Woodin family. The Hatten administration for probate of the estate is scheduled to be heard in county court at Waupaca at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Mrs. E. A. Cudahy, Sr., Succumbs in Chicago

Chicago—(AP)—Mrs. Edward A. Cudahy, Sr., 78, wife of the chairman of the Cudahy Packing company and for many years active in Chicago charities, died today.

She was the former Elizabeth Murphy of Milwaukee, who married the packer in 1884. After their marriage the Cudahys lived in Omaha, then headquarters of the packing firm, and moved to Chicago in 1911. In her earlier years here Mrs. Cudahy was known in musical circles as a vocalist. In her honor Cudahy donated the Elizabeth H. Cudahy Memorial library to Loyola university in 1920.

Survivors included also a son, Edward A. Cudahy, Jr., president of the packing company, and four daughters, Mrs. F. E. Wilhelm, Mrs. A. H. Niblack and Mrs. Vaughn Spaulding of Chicago, and Mrs. J. N. Stearns, Jr., of New York city. Eleven grand children and one great grandchild also survived.

Funeral services were scheduled for 10 a. m. Wednesday in Holy Name cathedral here, with burial private in Calvary cemetery.

AUTO KILLS CHILD

Racine—(AP)—Alice Scheel, aged 3, was struck and fatally injured by a automobile Sunday as she ran from the curb to cross the street. She died at St. Luke's hospital.

IN TAX CASE

John J. Raskob (upper) and Pierre S. DuPont (lower) appeared today before the United States Board of Tax Appeals in New York to answer a charge that they engaged in fictitious stock sales to each other to establish losses in reporting their incomes for 1929.

Roosevelt Plans Early Message on Power Question

Flood Control, Navigation, Power Development To be Included

Washington—(AP)—A presidential message on nationwide integration of power development, flood control and navigation improvement, probably will reach congress before Mr. Roosevelt returns from his southern fishing trip.

Administration leaders said Mr. Roosevelt has been considering the possibility of creating seven or eight areas to be developed along lines of the Tennessee Valley authority's operations in the Tennessee river basin.

There were intimations the presidential communication would outline a broad federal power policy and recommend creation of some central governmental agency to coordinate regional activities and regulate rates.

Some congressmen said the president might endorse in effect a bill, which Senator Norris (D-Nebr.) is preparing, to set up eight "little TVA's" throughout the country.

A sizable group of legislators has been urging that a central authority be charged with working out rates for power developed at federal hydro-electric projects.

Representative Rayburn (D-Texas), house majority leader, said he believed such a system was necessary to prevent competition among the projects.

Withrow Proposes Limit For Length of Trains

Washington—(AP)—Representative Gardner Withrow, LaCrosse, Wis., said today he would ask the house interstate commerce and foreign affairs committee to hold early hearings on his bill to limit train lengths.

Withrow's bill, similar to the Wheeler measure in the senate, would limit freight trains to 70 cars. He said the bill was endorsed by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

Top Prices for Coronation Seats in Decline as Bus Strike Hits London

London—(AP)—Prices of top-flight coronation grandstand seats dipped downward today in strike-stricken London as the demand for luxury accommodations along the May 12 procession route fell off.

At the same time London felt the full impact of the busmen's strike that has tied up the city's 5,000 buses since midnight Friday, threatening to snarl traffic arrangements for the coronation only nine days hence.

Early morning crowds, jammed subway and surface car systems, seriously taxing the branches of the transportation network which was crippled by the walkout of 25,000 busmen demanding shorter hours.

The drop in coronation grandstand seat prices affected luxury accommodations principally, though some speculators believed there would be a last-minute rush of buying.

Some Oxford street flats, for which as much as $1,000 had been bid, were advertised today for half that amount.

Several large seating agencies said they were sold out of $25 seats, but still were holding a big number of the better seats, which are priced from $100 to $200.

While speculators worried about the lessening demand for seats, ministry of labor officials worried about the bus strike, which, if it continues, would make even more difficult the handling of coronation throngs.

Early morning crowds in subway stations indicated breakdowns more serious than those yesterday might occur. Police who were forced to close the Marble Arch and Oxford Circus subway stations at intervals Sunday until they were cleared of struggling crowds of holiday makers, watched apprehensively as growing streams of workers fought their way to already over-taxed trains.

3 Admit Guilt In Paul Wendel Kidnaping Case

Confess in New Jersey After Federal Jurors Are Sworn in

MISTRIAL IS DENIED

Ellis Parker and Son Ac- cused of 'Original In- ception' of Plot

Newark, N. J.—(AP)—Three co-defendants of Ellis H. Parker and his son, Ellis, Jr., changed their pleas to guilty in federal court today after a jury was sworn to try the five on conspiracy charges growing out of the Wendel sequel to the Lindbergh kidnaping. The three were Martin Schlossman, Harry Weiss and Murray Bleefeld.

Federal Judge William Clark accepted the guilty pleas.

Schlossman and Weiss were convicted and Bleefeld pleaded guilty to a state kidnaping charge in Brooklyn in connection with the charge of Paul H. Wendel, former Trenton attorney, that he was abducted and forced to confess falsely to the Lindbergh kidnaping.

United States Attorney John J. Quinn said he had no advance knowledge of the plans of the Brooklyn men to plead guilty.

Just before the Brooklyn men changed their pleas, J. Mercer Davis of counsel for the Parkers moved for a mistrial, declaring the government's supplemental witness list made public Friday and containing the names of all five defendants supported his earlier charge that certain defendants intended to withdraw and testify for the defense.

Judge Clark denied the mistrial motion.

Opening Charge

Davis had charged last week that Bleefeld was "a stalking horse for the government."

United States Attorney Quinn, in his opening statement to the jury of eight women and four men, accused the elder Parker, chief of the Burlington county police, and his son of the "original inception" of the Wendel conspiracy and charged it was "a deliberate attempt by the Parkers to commercialize the death of the little Lindbergh baby."

Parker senior, Quinn said, thought Wendel "had a mental twist" which would enable him to induce Wendel to plead guilty to the Lindbergh crime.

If he pleaded guilty, "then the thought was, people in this country would rise up and prevent the execution of Bruno Hauptmann," said Quinn.

Hopes for Accord On Court Measure

Burke Sees 'Chance to Get Together' on Hatch's Proposal

Washington—(AP)—Senator Burke (D-Nebr.), a leader of the opposition to the Roosevelt court bill, said today "there might be a real chance to get together" with the administration if it abandoned the president's proposal and agreed to a compromise suggested by Senator Hatch (D-N.M.) for appointment of one justice a year.

Burke's statement made at the end of an executive session of the judiciary committee at which Hatch described his proposal, was the first hint from opposition leaders that some compromise might be acceptable.

Hatch has offered two amendments to the Roosevelt bill—one to limit presidential appointments to the supreme court to one year except for normal vacancies, and the other to make the increase in the size of the court only temporary.

Under the president's program the membership of the high court could be increased by as many as six unless justices now over 70 retire.

The committee also discussed today a proposal by Senator Logan (D-Ky.), a supporter of the Roosevelt bill, to advance the date for voting on the legislation from May 18, the date now fixed by unanimous consent. No agreement was reached, but Senator Hatch told newspaper men "we may take that procedure."

Hatch said his proposal had received a "very gratifying response" from the committee. Burke added that Hatch had presented it in a "clear and convincing manner that showed both amendments have real merit."

Japanese Premier Says Government Won't Quit

Tokio—(AP)—Premier Senjuro Hayashi indicated today he would refuse to heed widespread demands the government resign after its stunning defeat at the polls Friday.

The army-supported premier, who conferred lengthily with his cabinet and then had an audience with Emperor Hirohito, was reported planning either to combat or compromise with opposition political parties which retained 40 of the 466 parliamentary seats.

It was believed the premier could remain in office on the plea that a national emergency exists, making delay of new elections advisable for the country's stability. Political authorities forecast a period of internal tension.

Some observers predicted that Hayashi even though he continues in office now would be forced out when the diet (parliament) convenes in August.

Start Removing Refugees From Bilbao District

Madrid Sends Biggest Battleship to Bay Of Biscay

BULLETIN

Police today were investigating the report that a man had been seen to jump into the Fox river from the Lawe street bridge at about 2 o'clock this afternoon. Police abandoned any attempt to drag the river because the current at the point is so swift that the body, if any, would be carried down river. Police found a coat on the floor of the bridge near the spot where witnesses said they had seen the man jump over the railing. On the lamp was a name which is being withheld for the present.

File Petitions Asking Recall of Mayor John Niesen

Petitions containing 1,160 signatures asking recall of Mayor John Niesen of Kaukauna were filed today in the Outagamie county court of Judge F. V. Heinemann.

The petitions charge Niesen failed "to carry out his full duties of mayor" and are a result of an altercation in a tavern recently in which Altermann Jules Mertes of Kaukauna was severely beaten.

A total of 871 signatures or one-third of the 2,613 votes cast in the last mayoralty election are required for a recall election. The county court will determine if the petitions meet all legal requirements as to form, number of signatures, and similar factors.

If the petitions are certified by the county court and returned to the common council at Kaukauna, a recall election must be held. The council would be required to meet within five days after receiving the certified petitions and the election would be held not less than 40 nor more than 50 days after the petitions were received by the aldermen.

Judge Heinemann said this morning that several days would be necessary to check the signatures contained in the petitions and that no decision could be made by the court until that work is completed.

Old La Valle Mill Is Destroyed by Flames

LaValle, Wis.—(AP)—A fire, believed to have been started by a spark in the village generating plant housed in the La Valle Roller mill, destroyed the 40-year-old structure yesterday with $25,000 loss. Between $800 and $1,000 in cash and checks, hidden in a sack of grain was consumed.

The blaze is believed to have started about 4:20 a. m. when lights in the village went off, but the flames were not noticed until 6:10 a. m. when a passerby saw the fire as he stepped off a train.

Because the fire cut off the electricity, the telephone operator had difficulty arousing the volunteer firemen by telephone. The village alarm system was not operating.

A call to Reedsburg, Wis., brought a fire truck from that city. During the fire started from the Baraboo river, firemen put out the flame after four hours.

10 Persons Escape as $50,000 Yacht Burns

Clarksville, Mo.—(AP)—The charred shell is all that remained today of the Inland Waterways corporation's elaborate $50,000 inspection yacht. President, which burned near here just before dark last night.

Ten persons, including five passengers and a crew of five, rode the blazing craft to shore behind the boat's power launch, and only one person, a deck steward, was slightly burned.

The yacht was enroute to St. Paul, Minn., from St. Louis, with Major General Thomas Q. Ashburn, president of the corporation, and four guests aboard.

Captain Gaxson was absent when the fire started, having gone downstream to pick up Co-Pilot Charles Sundby, Prescott, Wis., from the towboat Mark Twain. They returned, however, in time to rescue the eight persons on the President.

$682,000 Paid in State Unemployment Checks

Madison—(AP)—Unemployment benefit checks totaling $682,000 have been paid to more than 34,000 Wisconsin workers under the state job reserve law, the industrial commission announced today.

Each of the 11,000 checks represented a week of partial or total unemployment.

The commission said the balance of the reserve fund exceeded $21,700,000 at the end of April, after payment of benefits equal to 3 per cent of the total contributions collected from employers since July 1, 1934.

During April the unemployment benefit payments totaled $173,000. Small payments for weeks of partial unemployment accounted for 31 per cent of this sum, the commission said.

Slays Three and Himself to Avoid Trial for Perjury

San Francisco—(AP)—The trial of Policeman George Burkhard, 33, on a perjury charge was ended today with Burkhard and his family of three dead, shot down in their home with a hunting rifle.

Fellow officers of the veteran police department marksmen said Burkhard apparently shot the shooting himself, using home-made "dum-dum" bullets.

Home-made squad inspectors said the dead, in addition to the policeman, were his wife, Hannah, 45, and their two daughters, Helen, 20, and Marion, 18.

Burkhard's case, an outgrowth of the San Francisco police investigation, was to have gone to the jury in superior court today.

Ordain Six to Priesthood at Green Bay May 22

Little Chute, Neenah and Chilton Men Will be Ordained

Three of the six deacons from Green Bay diocese who will receive the sacrament of holy orders during the Catholic priesthood ordination on Saturday, May 22, at St. Francis Xavier cathedral, Green Bay, are from the vicinity of Appleton. They are Alfred H. Hietpas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hietpas, Little Chute; Edward P. Kilsdonk, son of Mrs. Sophia Kilsdonk, Neenah; and Leonard F. Woelfel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Woelfel, Chilton.

Alfred H. Hietpas, who studied at St. Norbert college, West De Pere, and at St. Paul's seminary, will say his first mass in his home parish, St. John, Little Chute, on Sunday, May 23. Before attending St. Francis seminary, he attended Salvo-torian seminary at St. Nazianz.

Carpenter Pickets Out

At Holy Hill Entrances

Milwaukee—Members of the carpenters' district council of Milwaukee, an A. F. of L. affiliate, picketed entrances to Holy Hill, renowned Catholic religious shrine of the Carmelite Fathers, yesterday. Union heads said the picketing was done in protest of the assertedly low wages paid by the Hutter Construction Co., engaged in a building project on the grounds surrounding the shrine, and because, they said, the company hired non-union labor.

Catholic services were held as usual and pickets made no effort to stop worshippers from entering the grounds.

Pegler Doesn't Favor Burlesque in Any Form

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—When rats are allowed the free run of a neighborhood for any length of time they grow as bold as tomcats, and that is what has happened in the case of the burlesque branch of the drama, intimately known to the trade as lounge-opera. Cardinal Hayes and many other religious leaders in New York have protested against this filth, and far from sinking back into the sewer from which it came, burlesque is making a show of defiance and talking about its rights, as though disease had rights.

This form of vice has spread over much of the country, but New York, as usual, seems to have been the point of infection. There were a lot of old, mildewed theaters in town which weren't earning their taxes, and the promoters began in a small way with a few limp and listless plays which preformed with all the animation of a night watchman. The scenery was old and dirty and the dialogue of the comedians even more so. Naturally the shows made money. Any time a showman is allowed to display naked women he can make money, and it wasn't long until burlesque crept uptown to occupy a number of theaters which had been dark for years.

From New York the naked-woman shows spread out, and when Chicago, in the depth of the depression, determined to go through with a world fair planned in the reckless days of the boom, it was not art or science or culture but just that saved the venture. The girls in some of the more pretentious exhibitions were pretty and artful, but there were others on display at so much per week in the fair ground and in back room dumps around town who were tramps. Texas then adopted the same policy as a means of saving the investment in a fair, and meanwhile the burlesque show has become a standard entertainment in many cities, big and little.

Showpeople Claim They Are Unaffected by Their Acts
The nakedness of the females is just that, and all talk of art in connection with the striptease is obvious baloney, but even the appeal to the lust of the customers is less rotten than the remarks of the males who are listed as comedians. The humor in the main has to do with sexual depravity, a topic which has been made almost a household word through repetition in the more or less pretentious reviews and in the murmured innuendoes of the whispering smut singers of the cocktail rooms. However, the burlesque comedy is by far the lowest of all, so vile that even the showmen themselves have wondered if there wasn't a limit somewhere and tried to find it without success.

Always when complaint is made of nakedness or oral filth in a show the answer is that the showpeople themselves are unaffected by their own stuff, and that they are all one big, happy, virtuous family back-stage, which is just true enough to establish the basis for an argument. But when Sam Scribner, now 72 years old, who established the old Columbia burlesque system, declares that old-time burlesque was just good, clean fun he apparently forgets a few phrases.

Would Auction Girls To Men in Audience
It is true, that the Columbia theater in New York gave harmless burlesque, and the cast may have been, as he suggests, home-loving, God-fearing wage-earners and artists. But old-time burlesque in Chicago, at least, was different, for there was one famous old house on State street in which, at the end of the show, the comedian auctioned the girls of the cast to customers in the audience who claimed them then and there and took them, still in costume, to the rear hall in the rear. Possibly they married and settled down in the suburbs to raise large families of respectable Americans, but from the way things seemed to be going about midnight, that was impossible.

Mr. Scribner may remember, too.

Getting The Runaround

Cite Need for Emergency Hay And Pastures

New Seedlings Injured by Heat and Drought in '36 And Ice Sheet in '37

Madison—Damage caused to new seedlings by the 1936 excessive heat and drought period and by the ice-sheet of 1937 will necessitate emergency hays and pastures this season, Prof. G. M. Briggs and Prof. L. E. Graber of the University of Wisconsin College of Agriculture, announced in a bulletin today.

The report, a publication of the university extension service, stressed the need of quick growing hay crops and supplementary pasturage to replace the destruction of many alfalfa and clover crops.

Suggestions to farmers, applying to local conditions, were as follows:

"Old fields, particularly those grazed heavily or cut in a succulent state of growth last September, will be the first to die this spring; that is, where ice sheets have frozen tightly to the surface of the soil for several weeks.

"New seedlings of hardy varieties that were well established last fall will be more apt to survive. Not all fields are going to be completely killed. Many in the ice-covered regions will show thinning, but they can come back as a rule, if cutting of the first crop is delayed."

First cutting of winter-weakened alfalfa should be withheld until the last of June or the fore part of July, the report stated.

Possibility of thickening the stand by reseeding, was cited as an outlet for a successful oat or alfalfa crop.

The cheapest emergency hay crop, from the standpoint of seed costs in 1937, is oats.

"Oats makes good hay," the professor said. "When cut for hay it provides an excellent nurse crop for seedlings of alfalfa and clover. If cut in the milk stage the hay is harder to cure than if cut a little later."

A Combination
A combination of oats and field peas—14 bushels of each per acre—was recommended for eastern and northern regions where cool weather extends well into the summer. Canadian field peas, Scotch, Green and other varieties were declared suitable.

Soybeans were described as the best all-around emergency hay crop in regions where the corn crop is dependable. The report suggested planting of soybeans soon after corn planting time, when the weather has warmed up and frost danger is over. The last effective date for planting soybeans in Wisconsin would be June 20.

Other late seeded emergency hay crops may be obtained from sudan grass and millet, both of which tolerate fertile soil and hot weather. Millets will grow in cooler weather, but cool nights are damaging to sudan grass.

Corn, sunflowers and root crops are other sources of emergency feed. Sunflowers are a good substitute where corn growing is too hazardous. Rutabagas generally yield best in root crops in northern Wisconsin. All roots require fertile and well prepared land with good drainage. Winter rye, one of the toughest and hardest of all grains, gives fairly abundant pasturage, the report concluded, especially when sown in late August and early September.

Police Accuse Five Youngsters of Theft

Three youngsters, ranging in age from 8 to 12 years, were in juvenile court Saturday, accused of taking money from the Guenther Supply company office, 1027 S. Outagamie street. Loss of more than $100 was reported but the youngsters claimed they took only $10, police said.

Two other boys, 13 and 15 years old, were in juvenile court Saturday, accused of entering the Lincoln school, of fixing themselves a lunch there, and of forcing the door to the superintendent's office.

40-50-60 MILES AN HOUR! THEY ALMOST HAD THEIR MEN WHEN..BANG!..A BLOW-OUT!

Read S. S. VAN DINE'S description of Sgt. McCabe's thrilling man hunt! . . . .

"There they are! Not more'n a quarter mile ahead of us. We'll overhaul these criminals before they reach the Bad Lands. Sergeant McCabe's voice was triumphant."

And just then a sharp explosion rent the air, and the police car leaped from the narrow road at a sharp angle and lurched crazily to a sudden stop in a rock-strewn sandy field.

"No chance now," the Sergeant complained. "They've escaped. We've beaten by a town. The criminals did escape that time. But, thanks to Sergeant McCabe and his men, they were later captured. The solution to this havoc caused by blow-outs has seemed to me to depend on the manufacture of a safer tire. That's why the invention of the Life-Saver Golden Ply by Goodrich should be 'good news' to every American motorist. As one of the Goodrich engineers explained,

Feeble-Minded Boys Below Normal In Measurements of Physical Size

That feeble-minded boys are, on the average, below normal boys in all measurements of physical size, is the conclusion of Dr. Charles D. Flory, assistant professor of education, Lawrence college. His conclusion was arrived at partially through the study of more than 6,500 X-ray photographs of the human hand.

Previous experiments by various scientists had established a relationship between development of the bones of the hand and skeletal growth.

Dr. Flory's findings are embodied in two monographs just published by the Society for Research in Child Development, affiliated with the National Research Council, Washington, D. C., entitled "Osteological Development in the Hand as Index of Skeletal Development," and "The Physical Growth of Mentally Deficient Boys."

A second conclusion of Dr. Flory's study is that there is a direct correspondence between physical growth and mental development in feeble-minded boys. The feeble-minded are, on the average, below normal in all measurements of physical size. Curiously, while the rate of growth for the feeble-minded is slower than that of normal children, growth continues over a greater number of years.

"The family stock of mental deficiencies," Dr. Flory states, "has a high incidence of parents who are mentally retarded, economically poor, socially low, occupationally inferior and morally degraded. Home conditions in many families are not conducive to a high type of physical development."

Other Findings
Among other findings of Prof. Flory in his study include:

Families into which mentally deficient children are born exceed the average in size.
Feeble-minded boys were found to be retarded about six months in learning to walk and about eighteen months in the acquisition of speech. Each subject had an average of more than five different diseases. There is a definite relationship between the number of illnesses and the mental level.

The mortality rate is nearly twice as high among the mentally deficient and general population.
Dr. Flory concludes from these findings that:

The growth rate in physical traits is slower among feeble-minded males than for normal boys.

Period of Growth
The period of growth for sub-normal boys is longer than has been found for normal and superior children of the same sex.

The ultimate size of the average feeble-minded boy is below the mean for private school boys in all physical variables.

The degree of deviation in physical traits appears to be related to the degree of mental defects. There are many unfavorable environmental factors which may contribute to the inferiority in physical development.

The evidence of the entire study seems to point to the general conclusion that the feeble-minded boys are likewise physically inferior. A blighted mentality seems to be symptomatic of a calamity which has affected the whole organism.

Relief Costs in 1936 Highest in State's History

Total Is $150,000,000, Taxpayers Alliance Reports

Madison—Total 1936 relief costs were the highest in the history of the state amounting to $150,000,000, a sum almost equal to the $162,000,000 state and local tax levies and collections in the 1936 fiscal year, according to a bulletin just issued by the Wisconsin Taxpayers Alliance.

"Federal aids totaling about $111 million made possible the huge relief and welfare outlay. A large part of the federal funds were borrowed and will have to be repaid by all taxpayers, including Wisconsin taxpayers," the Alliance warned.

The Alliance believes that taxpayers have scarcely begun to feel the burden of relief.

Could Be Higher
"If relief were on a pay-as-you-go basis, the Wisconsin state and local tax burden would be 40 to 50 per cent higher than at present," the Alliance report claimed.

"Federal borrowing and budget figures indicate that about $55 million to $60 million of the $111 million relief aid to Wisconsin was money borrowed by the federal government. Local relief outlays were also paid in part with borrowed funds."

"The 1936 relief expenditures in Wisconsin were highest in history. In spite of increasing employment in private industry relief costs have continued to mount. The Wisconsin Industrial Commission index of employment in manufacturing industries at the low depression point stood at 63.0 in 1932; rose to 92.3 in 1936, an increase of 46 per cent."

"Contrary to normal expectation, relief cases increased at the same time employment increased. In 1932-33, Wisconsin was assisting 90,000 relief cases, in 1936 about 135,000 active cases. At the same time, relief costs have increased faster than number of cases. The 90,000 cases in 1933 cost $41 million; the 135,000 cases in 1936 cost $150 million. The 50 per cent increase in relief cases was accompanied by a 266 per cent increase in costs."

Federal funds paid 64 per cent of the Wisconsin relief costs in 1936; state funds nine per cent, and local funds 27 per cent, the report stated. Included in the Alliance cost figures are amounts spent in direct and work relief, rehabilitation, resettlement, old age assistance, blind and mothers' pensions and institutional charities.

Today and Tomorrow

BY WALTER LIPPMAN

The Neutrality Bill and After

The new neutrality bill agreed upon by the conference committee is stop-gap legislation, valid for two years, and it is probably as good a compromise as could have been worked out in a time when conditions are so unsettled and men's opinions are at sixes and sevens.

The present bill is a compromise between two schools of thought. The one holds that the way to avoid American entanglement in a foreign war is in effect to cut off all relations with Europe. The other holds that such complete non-intercourse would produce an economic disaster at home and would put a premium on aggression abroad.

The compromise bill prohibits an active war trade here in munitions and by means of loans. But it allows those who have the right to buy, and the ships in which to carry, other American goods to come here and obtain what they want. And it leaves to the President a certain amount of discretion in determining how this policy shall be applied.

Bill Can Be Shown to Work Out in Many Undesirable Ways

Theoretically, as applied to all conceivable wars, the bill can be shown to work out in all sorts of undesirable ways. But, of course, though the bill does not say so, it is designed for the only important war that might occur in the next two years. That is a war in which Germany and Italy would be fighting Britain and France. The bill does something to make such a war a little less likely.

For it enables the peaceable powers to strengthen their defense against aggression by using their sea power and their gold to obtain raw materials in America. All observers agree that the stranger the British and the French become, the less likely is a European war. Then, too, the bill does at least provide some insurance against the prostration of American exports, particularly farm products and minerals. Moreover, the bill does make it somewhat less likely that Americans will become directly involved in the battle areas.

These are three vital American interests, and a bill which serves all of them in some degree must be counted as reasonably good. Certainly no better bill could be enacted now.

Care Defects by Measures Which Will Not War

The bill will be excellent if we never have to put it into effect, and the only real way to cure the defects of the bill is to take other measures which will make a European war less probable. The time has come when important measures for the preservation of world peace are possible. With good sense and good management, they can be carried out in the next six months.

The basic fact of the situation is that the peaceable nations have recovered their power and their self-confidence. They are growing stronger whereas the aggressor nations are growing weaker. For three years we have heard much about the race of armaments provoked by Hitler and Mussolini. It is a race, costly, deadly and dangerous. But the fact is that Britain and France are winning the race, and the longer it lasts the more decisively they will win it. In all probability the high point of Mussolini's superiority was reached when his armies entered Addis Ababa, the high point of Hitler's when he entered the Rhineland a year ago. Since that time the power of the dictators has been declining when compared with the power of the western democracies.

Germany and Italy Are No Match for England, France

In the long run Germany and Italy are no match whatever for Britain and France. They had a temporary superiority because dictators move faster and more ruthlessly than democracies, and what they have always lacked in real power, they made up by boasting and bluffing. But now their weaknesses begin to tell.

The cannot be sure of the loyalty of their own people. They have not persuaded their own people. They have terrorized them. In Britain and France, on the other hand, the great masses of the people, hitherto pacifist, are today passionately in favor of national rearmament. That this is a factor of the highest military importance has been demonstrated in Spain, where the Italian conscripts have made a sorry showing when matched against the passionately convinced volunteers fighting for the Spanish government. Who knows, certainly not Hitler or Mussolini, which way the German and Italian troops will march in a war between the dictators and the democracies?

Western Powers are Stronger Because in World Markets

The western powers are also immeasurably stronger because they work and trade in world markets, whereas Germany and Italy are strangling themselves by their own militarized planning. The dictatorships are in effect living under a self-imposed blockade. They do not Bayley was a councilor at the Appleton Y. M. C. A. camp at Onaway for the last two years summer. A third Appleton youth, William Ogilvie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ogilvie, 846 E. Pacific street, also may serve at the Evanston camp this summer. Buesing and Bayley are freshmen at Lawrence college while Ogilvie is enrolled at the La Crosse State Teachers college.

Light Surfaced State Roads in Fair Condition

Concrete and high type bituminous highways are in good condition but light surfaced roads and earth sections are in only fair to poor shape, a state highway commission report to F. R. Appleton, county highway commissioner states.

Due to continued rains, several of the lighter surfaced routes have become impassable during the last few days. Frost heaves have about disappeared but care must still be exercised in driving, due to rough conditions, the report stated. Seasonal road restrictions are in effect on most of the light surfaced highways.

The following detours are still in effect:

Barron county, U. S. H. 8. Almena-Poskin road; Calumet county, S. T. H. 57. Chilton-New Holston road; Columbia county, U. S. H. 16. Columbus - Portage road; Grant county, U. S. H. 61. ## Report 13 Traffic Mishaps in April

Four persons were injured and two killed in 13 traffic accidents reported to Appleton police during April, a chart prepared by Lieutenant H. W. Kapp of the Appleton police department shows. The two fatalities occurred at a grade crossing and were the first in Appleton this year.

The number of accidents in April was less than in any preceding month this year but more than in April of 1936 when 10 accidents, involving injury to six persons, were reported.

Improved driving conditions reduced the number of accidents in proportion to the number of automobiles in use, police reported.

Three persons were hurt in 14 accidents reported in January this year. Nine were hurt in 17 accidents in February and nine were hurt in 23 accidents reported to police in March.

Plan Organization Of Bicycle Club

Safety Contest To Close May 10 At Kimberly Mill

Winners to Attend Conference at Oshkosh With Expenses Paid

Kimberly—Two employees of the Kimberly mill of the Kimberly-Clark corporation will attend the Fox Valley and Lake Shore Safety conference at Oshkosh May 20, with all expenses paid. They will be winners in a contest centering about safety suggestions, pointing attention to unsafe practices by employees or unsafe machinery or equipment.

Participants in the contest will give detailed information, naming the department in which unsafe conditions prevail, the specific machinery or equipment involved, the occupation and kind of operation concerned.

Only hourly paid employees are eligible to compete in this contest. Any employee may write up and hand in as many suggestions as he wishes which will be judged on soundness of the idea; degree of danger to which employees are exposed by the condition and practicability and feasibility of the writer's idea for correction.

Three judges will be selected by the Kimberly mill safety committee. They will select two of the best suggestions and the writers will be given a free trip to the conference. Suggestions may be written in ink or typed on 8 1/2 by 11 paper, and must be submitted to the personnel office not later than Monday, May 10.

The executive committee of the general council of the Kimberly-Clark corporation will convene in the committee rooms in the main office building at Neenah at 8:30 Monday morning, May 17. The meeting will last one day. Four management representatives to serve on the executive committee for the May meeting have not yet been appointed. Notice of the appointment will be given when the docket is sent out.

Caucus May 18

Elected representatives will caucus at 3:30 Tuesday morning, May 18 in the assembly room. Management representatives will caucus Tuesday May 18, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon in the committee room. The general council will convene 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, May 19, in the assembly room. F. A. Robinson is general council secretary.

Management representatives are H. G. Boon, C. G. Eubank and M. H. Kettenhoven. Elected representatives are: Harold Fird, Amos Green, Henry Moleher, Harry Miller, Chester Radlin, George Ritten, and T. Volante.

The Community band which usually has its spring march through the village on the first Sunday in May postponed the tour until next Sunday afternoon at its rehearsal last Thursday. In addition to marching through the village and playing selections at the residences of village officials the band will play marches in front of the Holy Name school where the sisters and children are having a May festival.

Harry Valentine, who has resided in Kimberly for a number of years, died in Fairbault, Minn., last week. Besides a brother, Peter, of Kimberly, survivors are seven children, Mrs. John Pansold Fird, Joseph Kern, Mrs. E. R. When she sets a limit on the number of years she'll stay in pictures, you can believe that too. She'll stay that long—if she can—and then she'll start all over again.

Maureen O'Sullivan used to say that if she didn't get what she wanted out of pictures in a couple of years she would quit. She was going to quit, anyway, after she married. Well, she's married, and she's still making pictures.

3-Week Mission Opens Sunday at St. Joseph Church

Holy Cross Fathers From Notre Dame are in Charge

The high mass at St. Joseph's church Sunday morning marked the opening of a 3-week mission being conducted by the Rev. Joseph E. Hart, C. S. C., and the Rev. Thomas Richards, C. S. C., Holy Cross Fathers connected with the University of Notre Dame in Indiana.

The two missionaries spoke at other masses yesterday in preparation for the opening of the mission, the first services of which was held last night. This week married women of the parish are attending the services, mornings and evenings, next week will be devoted to unmarried women of the parish and the final week will be for the men, both married and single. The children's mission is being held this week in connection with the married women's mission. A special session is being held each morning at 11 o'clock for the children of grade school age and the way of the cross is held at 9:30 each afternoon.

The purpose of a mission is to revive and increase Catholic life. It is intended to be a time of grace for all Catholics, but especially for those who have either grown indifferent or have ceased the practice of their faith. The mission will close Sunday May 23. While the mission sermons set forth Catholic truths and doctrines non-Catholics are invited to attend the mission.

Edward Speeding To Wallis as She Is Granted Decree

an whose love changed an empire's crown and thrilled the whole world: London, 10:30 a. m.—Presiding Judge Sir Boyd Merriam in the divorce court nodded his head over 78 final divorce cases, one of them "Simpson, W., vs. Simpson, E. A." and said: "I pronounce the decree as absolute."

Edward Leaves
St. Wolfgang, Austria, noon—Edward of Windsor, dressing for a mountain hike, answered the telephone; then announced through his adjutant: "the duke is taking the 4 o'clock train at Salzburg—destination, Tours."

The Chateau de Cande, France, near Tours—Mrs. Simpson, in seclusion as deep as before, let her attorneys handle the decree and awaited her betrothed. She will not wed him, her spokesmen insisted, until after the coronation. But the fact remained that Mrs. Simpson, who married Ernest Aldrich Simpson her second husband on July 21, 1928, was legally free to marry the former king at any moment.

The London divorce court, in a routine procedure requiring less than one minute, made final the divorce nisi Mrs. Simpson obtained at Ipswich Oct. 27 on charges of infidelity. The court formally required only 25 seconds.

No Dissenting Voice
A court clerk asked Presiding Judge Sir Boyd Merriam to make absolute the 78 divorce cases on the docket, including Mrs. Simpson's. "Is there any intervention?" intoned the robed justice to the silent courtroom.

After a moment's stillness, in which no dissenting voice was raised, Sir Boyd nodded his head to the clerk.

"I pronounce the decrees absolute," the judge said quietly, then by freeing Mrs. Simpson—who remained secluded in a French chateau—to wed the man who renounced his throne for love of her. It was Mrs. Simpson's second divorce. An earlier marriage to Lieutenant Earl W. Spencer of the United States navy was dissolved in a Virginia divorce court in 1927.

None of the principals in the case was present.

Only eight women and two men witnessed the proceedings from the gallery.

Walter Frampton, who represented Mrs. Simpson in the original action at Ipswich, attended the court session accompanied by a representative of her solicitors.

MRS. SIMPSON SILENT
Monte, France.—Wallis Warfield Simpson calmly received the news that her divorce had been made final as she strolled through the gardens of Chateau de Cande today.

Her spokesman, Herman L. Rogers, indicated that she had nothing to say about the action of the British divorce court which removed the last legal barrier to her marriage to the duke of Windsor.

Rogers confirmed reports from Vienna that the duke had left his retreat at St. Wolfgang, Austria, indicated the former British king would arrive some time tomorrow.

Rogers declined further comment but promised a statement "before the duke arrives." He ruled out the chance of a wedding before late May.

Realty Transfers

The following real estate transfer was filed today at the office of A. L. Collier, Outagamie county register of deeds:

Open Gates Check Rise in Level of Lake Winnebago

Engineers Report No Serious Flood Damage At Any Point

Open sluice gates in dams along the Fox river today continued to absorb the rush of waters into Lake Winnebago from its tributaries.

The gates at the government dams at Neenah and Menasha were thrown open Saturday afternoon in response to requests to government engineers from Fond du Lac and Oshkosh for measures to remove danger of a flood.

The level of the lake Saturday was about 17 1/2 inches above the crest of the Menasha dam and in spite of the rush of water down the Fox river during the last 48 hours, the lake level was about the same today, government engineers at Milwaukee reported.

While boat owners, warned in advance that the gates would be opened, hurried to protect their vessels Saturday afternoon, the level of the lower river here came up about 10 inches. A raft of timbers owned by the Appleton Bent club was swept away by the current and smashed at the Kimberly dam, but no other serious damage was reported here.

At the army engineers' office at Milwaukee this afternoon, no estimate on the length of time the gates will remain open could be made. Engineers are watching the situation in the Winnebago tributaries and will act as changes develop, it was stated. No serious flood damage at any point has been reported to the Milwaukee office.

Several county highways crossing the Wolf river in the low lands were closed to traffic Saturday and Sunday. County trunk 5 near Stephenson was closed for several hundred feet while County trunk M north of Hortonville was under water at various times Saturday and Sunday for almost a half mile.

At Shiocton the water was about a foot from the lower edge of the bridge and had flooded all the low places. Highway 76 south of Shiocton had water on both sides of the concrete in places.

At least one enterprising fisherman took advantage of the high water here Sunday. Using a dip net in the Fox river at E. John street, the fisherman caught carp by the armful, put them in burlap sacks, and sold them for 50 cents a sack.

Beg Pardon

The Appleton Post-Crescent erred Saturday in an item stating that Edmund J. Lachmann, Jr., Neenah, had been granted a divorce in circuit court at Oshkosh from Virginia M. Lachmann, Appleton. The court granted a divorce to Mrs. Lachmann on a counterclaim in which she charged cruel and inhuman treatment and Mr. Lachmann did not contest this charge nor did he press his original charge of desertion. The court granted Mrs. Lachmann the right to resume her maiden name, Virginia O'Connor. The Post-Crescent regrets this error.

Waupaca Mayor Escapes Injury in Car Accident

Mayor Fred R. Fisher of Waupaca narrowly escaped injury when he was involved in an accident with a parked truck on Highway 10 near Stevens Point about 9 o'clock Saturday night. He was on his way to Bemidji, Minn., where he was called upon the illness of a brother, Andrew. His car was badly damaged.

1,200 Country 'Kids' Entertained on Rural Youth Day by Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce

Evidence that 1,200 Outagamie rural youths really enjoyed themselves in Appleton Saturday as guests of the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce is strikingly given in the photographs above.

The youngsters thrilled at a movie at the Appleton theater during the morning. And they really thrilled, too, as the expressions on the faces of the three girls in the first photograph indicate. There was real "drammer" for those kids in that movie. The girls, left to right, LaVerne Palmbach, Elaine Kuzenski and Grace Kasper, all of Greenville.

Lusty voices and strong lungs were given full sway at a community sing which was part of the theater program. And they really "let 'er go", the second picture shows. That they enjoyed this feature of the program is well illustrated on the faces of Eugene Nieland, route 3, Appleton, Nor-

One of the early arrivals at Pierce park Mac Drexler, 505 E. Lincoln street, Appleton, who is shown in the fourth picture above being greeted by Mayor John Goodland, Jr. Other youths crowded around the mayor as he officially welcomed the visitors and many probably had a secret desire to be in Miss Drexler's place.

That the youths' appetites were whetted while sitting through the program at the theater is revealed in the last picture as four Black Creek youths happily munch sandwiches provided by the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce auxiliary. More than 2,400 sandwiches and 2,400 cookies were served the 1,200 guests. The Black Creek youths in the picture are, left to right, Kenneth Scott, Kenneth Schmoll, George Scott and Walter Lehn. ## Rural Youth Day Draws 1,200 Boys And Girls to City

Country Youngsters Entertained by Junior Chamber of Commerce

A day filled with entertainment and fun will be remembered for a long time by the 1,200 rural boys and girls who invaded the city Saturday for the annual Rural Youth Day sponsored by the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Although the movie which opened the program at the Appleton theater was scheduled for 9 o'clock in the morning, hundreds of boys and girls, in holiday spirit, arrived at the theater an hour earlier and sought admission.

Flags welcoming the youths to Appleton were raised Saturday on College avenue and gave a carnival aspect to the parade at noon when the youths marched from the theater to Pierce park where other features of the day's program were presented.

The program started on time at 9 o'clock and was concluded at about 4 o'clock in the afternoon after the boys and girls had made inspection tours of four Appleton city and business buildings.

Enjoy Western Movie

A western movie was enjoyed by the crowd at the theater in the morning after which community singing took place. Seven groups then competed in the 4-H club sing at the theater with a mixed chorus of the Elm Tree 4-H club, Greenville, being the winner.

Second place in the sing went to the Pleasant Corners 4-H club, also of Greenville. Groups entered include a girl's and mixed chorus of the Elm Tree club, a girl's and boy's and a mixed chorus of Pleasant Corners club, a mixed chorus of the Woodland Hustlers club of Seymour, a girl's chorus from the Pine Grove club, Oneida.

Members of the winning team were Nathalie Schmitt, Pearl Behnke, Lillian Metz, Verdine Meltz, Dorothy Schmitt, Kermit Meltz, Virginia Pingel and Vernon Schmidt. Judges were Wilfred C. Harris, sixth grade instructor at Wilson Junior High school, Kenneth Schilling, music instructor in the junior high schools, and Miss Elizabeth Runge, Lawrence college student.

Parade on College Avenue

After the program at the theater, the boys and girls, carrying club banners and insignias, paraded to Pierce park for lunch and the afternoon program. The Sons of the American Legion Drum and Bugle corps and a police escort led the parade to Pierce park.

Banners carried by members of the Wide-Awake 4-H club of the town of Center were judged the most outstanding carried by any 4-H clubs in the parade. Pupils from the Medina State Graded school and the Industrial Hollow school of Grand Chute won prizes for banners in the school division. Maynard John Goodland, Jr., and a junior chamber of commerce committee were at the park to welcome the visitors. Lunch prepared by the Jace Auxiliary was served. Mrs. Wilmer O. Gruett was in charge of the lunch and refreshment committee.

Serve 2,400 Sandwiches

More than 2,400 sandwiches, 2,400 cookies and many gallons of milk were distributed to the hungry youths and the large crowd, although having a great deal of fun, was neither boisterous or noisy. Boy Scouts and other Appleton youths helped serve the visitors.

A short welcoming speech was given by Mayor Goodland at the opening feature of the afternoon program and the youths were then treated to more entertainment.

Thrill to Riding Exhibition

The boys and girls, although seeing horses almost every day, thrilled to the horsemanship exhibition provided by Lloyd Besch, riding master at the Appleton Riding club and Ewald Tilly, a club member. Besch, riding "Texas," and Tilly, riding "Brownie," had their mounts do various single and double jumps. The exhibition was arranged by Edward Pfeil.

Valley Council Boy Scouts next entertained with acts which had been features of the annual scout meets at the Alexander gymnasium a February. Walter G. Dixon arranged the acts which include wall climbing, fire making and lariat throwing.

More than 100 boys and girls took advantage of the chance to go swimming in the Y. M. C. A. pool at about 1:30 in the afternoon. The boys were permitted to swim for about 40 minutes and then had to leave the pool so the girls would be given an equal chance.

Taken on Tours

After the group left the Y. M. C. A., the 900 remaining visitors were divided into four sections and taken on conducted tours through four Appleton city and business places.

Vast enjoyment was shown by the eager youths as they patiently waited to be taken through the Appleton Post office, the city water works plant, the Wisconsin Telephone company and the Post-Crescent building.

Employees of the various firms served as guides and explained how mail is prepared for delivery how phone calls are made, how a newspaper is printed and how Appleton residents obtain their supply of water.

Join Other Groups

After the visitors had been through one building, they would rush to another and wait in line for a chance to join other inspection groups.

It was about 4 o'clock in the afternoon when the last groups completed their tours and slowly wended their way to family auto and parents who had taken advantage of the day to shop in Appleton stores.

Big Increase in State Spending On PWA Projects

Nearly Sixty-Nine Millions Spent in Wisconsin In Four Years

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)

Washington—Wisconsin is apparently going into competition with the United States government on this question of spending money.

According to figures released Monday by Works Progress Administration Harry Hopkins, Wisconsin state and local governments spent nearly 28 times more money on public works (PWA) projects in 1936 than in 1935, seven times more on work relief (WPA) projects, a little over twice as much on PWA

Scherer were co-chairmen in charge of the affair and were assisted by a committee including George Howden, John Notebaert, Martin Umuth, Elmer Grasen, Wilmer O. Gruett and H. K. Derus in 1934 than in 1933, and about one and a half times more on direct and work relief last year than in 1933.

All together, the Badger State spent $68,328,626 on relief and work programs during the four years from 1933 through 1936, the report shows. A little over three times more was spent in 1936 than in 1933, sixteen millions.

During the four years, $16,093,000 of Badger funds went into Public Works Administration projects. In 1936, $3,800,000 were spent on PWA compared with $3,486,000 in 1935 and $319,000 in 1933.

In the two years since the beginning of the Works Progress Administration, Wisconsin spent $8,541,585 on this type of work projects. At the beginning of the program in 1933, $1,058,554 were spent and in 1936 $7,482,031 went for WPA projects.

On Civil Works Administration projects, which were started in 1933, Wisconsin spent a total of $1,831,410. During the first year, $619,983 went into CWA projects and in 1934, when CWA was discontinued, $1,311,427 were spent.

State and local funds amounting to $42,362,631 went for various forms of direct and work relief during the four years. Last year, $12,131,499 went into relief, compared with $13,962,218 in 1935 and $7,849,729 in 1933. This is the only item showing a decrease in 1936 expenditure compared with 1935.

Wisconsin Tenth

Wisconsin is tenth among the states in total amount of state and local funds used for relief and work programs in the four years from 1933 through 1936. New York spent most, Pennsylvania next and Illinois third.

Throughout the country as a whole, state and local governments spent nearly four times as much from their own funds for relief and work programs in 1936 as they did in 1933. WPA Administrator Hopkins pointed out. Expenditures for these programs increased from $239 million in 1933 to $1,245 million in 1936.

Total state and local expenditures for the four years amounted to over 2,900 million, of which 1,700 million was used for direct and work relief. 85 million for CWA, 245 million on WPA and 925 million for PWA projects, the report says.

EDWARD'S OPPORTUNITY

The Duke of Windsor is expected to press libel charges against the publisher and author of a book which comments unfavorably and, it is said, unfairly on the qualities of kingship he displayed as England's ruler and which takes some of his intimates severely to task. The book has been withdrawn from circulation in England and the publishing firm has extended an apology.

Many persons will hope that the Duke will permit no one to dissuade him and that he will carry his grievance into the courts. The attending publicity, especially if he should win his case, ought to serve as salutary warning to publishers and writers that good taste still pays larger dividends than does slander. A section of the British press also might study with profit a verdict in favor of the Duke.

Edward is able to perform a service for all persons of prominence. If he presses his action for libel the world will watch the progress of his suit. He has little to lose, much to gain. Probably no man in modern times has been more freely discussed. Most of the discussion has been temperate. Some of it has violated every concept of fairness, good taste, even common decency. We could have little respect for Edward if he did not resent the action of publishers who have pilloried him as a quick method of fattening their bank accounts.

The Duke now is a private citizen, to all intents and purposes, and as such is able to press the issue. Many a man in the public eye, held up to ridicule or worse, hesitates to seek redress because of his position. A court finding in favor of the Duke will be a victory for all men whose position makes them targets of writers who trade in malice and innuendo, scandal and ill-will.

The British press, or a section of it at least, has not hesitated to express disapproval of some American newspaper practices. Some of its criticism has been justified. But the crisis which brought Edward's abdication was attended by examples of "yellow journalism" in England that have had no counterpart in this country. So serious were the offenses, Great Britain's powerful Newspaper Proprietors Association felt constrained to notify the Government it "strongly condemned methods of news gathering which may cause unnecessary distress."

It is reported that an American concern is going ahead with plans to publish the book which stirred Edward to anger. Likely the report is true. There can always be found those who value reputation less than money, and those who are eager to read anything of a slanderous nature.

It has not been so many years since such a book, assailing the memory of a good if ill-advised President, gained wide circulation. That President was dead and could not defend himself. Edward is very much alive. Millions will cheer him on if he seeks redress from men of ill-will.

CAUSE FOR OPTIMISM

The pessimist has a field day whenever there is a dip in the market. The optimist supports his claim that recovery is an established fact by citing figures that are released by basic industries. And, in a sense, railroading is an industry.

Railroads are expected to spend more money for capital and maintenance purposes in 1937 than in any year since before the depression. There is a shortage of 8,000 locomotives, according to conservative estimates. Four hundred thousand new freight cars are needed. To meet estimated passenger requirements, 6,000 new coaches and pullmans must be built.

And railroad men are optimistic, are settling about the task of raising the money that is needed. The fact that money is being found is significant. Commitments made during the final quarter of 1936 are proof that millions of dollars are being poured into railroads by a class of investors that is recognized as being particularly hard-headed.

From 1925, through 1929, the railroads of the country spent more than two and a half billions of dollars annually for maintenance and equipment. During the next six years annual expenditures for similar purposes averaged only about half this sum. Consequently, there exists a deficiency of equipment unparalleled in the major transportation field.

The fact that railroads are making up the deficiencies and that money is being found for the purpose is cause for optimism. The market may sag, but the railroads of the country reflect true conditions.

POWER AND THE PEOPLE

New permanent neutrality legislation empowers the President to force belligerents to deal with the United States on a cash-and-carry basis, close American ports to belligerent supplies and ships, forbid Americans to travel on ships of hostile nations and ban American contributions to belligerents, except to relieve suffering. A feature of the old temporary neutrality law which places a mandatory embargo on shipments of arms and extension of credits to belligerents also is retained.

It was to be expected that opposition to the new legislation would be voiced. Spokesmen for the minority protested that the new legislation gives a President powers of discretion that are too weighty to be saddled on any individual.

The fear is a natural one and the minority should not be criticized for giving expression to it. But it would seem that little reason for fear exists.

The opposition pointed to a "one-sided policy" which led us to join with the Allies in 1917. If that policy was one-sided it must also be admitted that it was a policy that represented majority sentiment. America entered the war on the side of the Allies when that majority sentiment no longer could be curbed. Our participation in the war might have started at an earlier date if restraints had not been placed on popular clamor. True, a slogan used to re-elect the war-time President secured votes because he had "kept us out of war," but the ground swell of public opinion was pushing ever more powerfully even then and was shortly to lead to a declaration of war. Even now, a majority believes that was the truth of the matter.

So long as the United States endures as a Republic and elects its Presidents in the time-tried manner, there is scant reason to fear that the foolish, ill-advised or stubborn acts of a President will commit us to a course of action that is not of our choosing.

The new legislation does give Presidents powers to protect us from the consequences of selfish acts of individuals and of groups. As always, it will be public opinion that determines whether we shall declare a state of war exists.

ORDERLY INDUSTRY

The new Guffey-Vinson bill is described as setting up "a little NRA for the bituminous coal industry." More is hoped from it, however, than the original big NRA was able to accomplish. This one is less pretentious and possibly better conceived.

It differs from the original on matters that were found unconstitutional, omits particularly the invalid labor provisions, and is expected by its sponsors to stand a constitutional test. Whether it will stand the test of practical application is another question. Open-minded people hope so.

The commission empowered to administer the act, members for which have been submitted to the Senate by the President, will have power to regulate the industry through a code allowing fixed prices and banning unfair practices. Small taxes will be imposed to pay the costs of administration. Capital, labor and public will all be represented.

Speaking for the coal miners, John L. Lewis says the plan will "substitute rational stabilization for ruthless and devastating competitive practices which have debauched the industry for decades, sweated labor and removed the industry as a source of tax revenue for the government." John F. Carson, belonging to the Department of the Interior, is expected to represent the public in the commission's proceedings and to conduct independent investigations in their behalf.

The industry has been in dire straits for so many years that any plan which can bring order, stability and a reasonable amount of profit in this distressed domain will seem like a gift from heaven.

BUSY FREIGHTERS

Ocean freight traffic keeps up with passenger freight. Both are expected this year to be the largest since 1929. In spite of increases in freight rates, many ships are carrying capacity loads and industrial traffic managers are bidding for space at rates higher than those quoted.

Much of this traffic is steel, scrap iron and fertilizer. Rates for steel shipments are sometimes three times as high as standard rates. It is reported that some steamship lines have turned down scrap iron cargoes for the more profitable steel.

The shipping lines are prospering, and so, doubtless, are the concerns selling the steel and scrap. But it's a stupid thing that the world can crowd its vessels with the materials for slaughter and destruction while it is still unable to keep them moving profitably with the materials for peaceful progress and construction.

China has just established a passenger and freight navigation service to Manila, the first Chinese shipping line to a foreign port in many years.

Shortly after Netherland Island placed restrictions on the growing of rubber this year heavy rains stopped production and a shortage followed.

Jonah:

And I can remember way back when one time I went deer hunting my wife put a bottle of iodine in my shirt pocket to disinfect cuts and bruises with and I fell over a wind fall and didn't know I busted the bottle. And then it rained. When I changed clothes that night I thought I was a Siamese twin. Half of me had joined the Mongolian race.

And I can remember way back when one time an illiterate friend of mine asked me to write a letter to an accident insurance company in Nebraska asking them to adjust his claim. He had been injured and claimed several friends had written without results. An I wrote the letter and 4 or 5 days later he had the check. And he told his friends that Sobduster was the guy to get when writing letters 'cause no one could read his writing and they thought it was from a lawyer and paid some attention to it.

And that night the bed broke down and the next day it rained and I bought myself a stump-machine and then the hens began to lay. —Ezekiel Sobduster

Despite the sweeping epidemic of strikes, and Henry Wallace, I am pretty sure that things are returning to our old normal way of living. Yessir, congress is fighting the president for about the first time since the rubber stamps were moulded and it is going to be interesting to see whether the boys are bluffing or whether they mean it.

On Friday, the papers and radio commentators were calmly saying that FDR would be required to put the heat on the recalcitrant ones when he got back. That sounds funny in a democracy, doesn't it?

And the hottest heat will come via the money method because our representatives in Washington just love patronage and the patronage somehow comes from the top.

The president's desire to impose 15% of relief funds to be used as he sees fit is another interesting move in the automatic direction. With congress in one pocket, the Supreme court in the other, and a quarter of a billion bucks to spend as he likes, Franklin the First could make Mussolini look like a piker.

Maybe I oughta support the emperor's wishes and hope for a cut.

The golf season ought to be here by my birthday in June and I am in a mood right now to retire and let the nation get along without my well-nigh indispensable services.

SPRING RAIN

I can hear the beat of the rain
 Because I know
 Drops on the sleeping grain
 Will make it grow.
 I can hear the sigh of the wind,
 The dripping trees,
 Dreaming of gardens lined
 With peonies.
 I can hear the patter of weeds
 On my heart's field,
 After misfortune glows
 The harvest yield.
 I can hear whatever Fate showers
 Of joy or pain,
 For there will be lovely flowers
 After the rain.

THE SUPREME COURT ISN'T THE ONLY THING THAT REVERSES ITSELF

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY M. D.
 Noted Physician and Author

FAR-SIGHTEDNESS

Hypermetropia or far-sightedness is that defect of vision in which, by reason of a foreshortened eyeball, parallel rays of light from a distant object are not focused upon the retina or sensitive film, but some distance behind it, so that clear vision is impossible unless by extraordinary strain or effort on the part of the focusing muscle of the eye. This muscle, however, must have some rest and does have necessary rest in normal eyes when distant objects are regarded. You rest your eyes, for instance, by looking up from your work and gazing off at some distant scene. The far-sighted person cannot so rest his eyes without the aid of glasses.

The constant strain thrown upon the focusing apparatus by far-sightedness may be endured for a long time without conscious trouble, especially if the general health and vigor are good. But when the general strength or endurance is reduced for any reason, then fatigue of the focusing muscle manifests itself in blurring of the type or running together of stitches in sewing, for example. The eyes are apt to become over-sensitive to light and to be red and irritable both the eyeball and the lining of the lids. Headache and other general reflex symptoms of eyestrain may be experienced by the patient.

The use of drops to put the focusing muscle at rest is not necessary in testing far-sighted eyes in persons over forty years of age, because after that time of life the crystalline lens naturally become so hard that the focusing muscle cannot alter its shape very much and consequently the patient's unconscious or involuntary effort to strain need not be considered in measuring the vision.

Oculists, that is, physicians who limit their practice to eye troubles, have always considered drops necessary in making accurate test of the vision in a patient under the age of forty years, if the uncertainty incident to involuntary strain is to be eliminated.

Ophthalmologists, that is, persons who fit glasses but have not a medical education, hold that a sufficiently accurate measurement may be made without putting the focusing muscle at rest with drops; opticians or optometrists are not permitted by law to use drops in the eyes. The annoyance to which the patient is put for several days by the use of drops—near vision is temporarily impracticable when the cycloplegic is active and therefore no close work or reading can be done with comfort—prompts many patients to content themselves with the optician's examination and while of course I hate to admit that anybody outside our hallowed profession is worth a hoot, I am bound to admit that a good many patrons of the optometrist seem satisfied with the glasses he gives them. For which testimonial I anticipate a vote of thanks on the one hand and eternal damnation on the other. (Copyright, 1936)

"TAURUS"

If May 4 is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 9 to 11 a. m. from 1 to 3 p. m. and from 7 to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 7 to 9 a. m., from 5 to 7 p. m. and from 9 to 11 p. m.

It will be through ignoring good advice that most of this day's troubles will originate. Egotism is apt to be the stumbling block in the average person's path, so guard against its evil effects. To undertake anyone's degree of intelligence, interpretation of something said, is a mistake. Having an excess of confidence is sometimes as bad a fault as not having sufficient and on this day it is important that you do not go to extremes in this respect. Hearing probably will be an important factor in many of this day's affairs. Intense hearing may cause a misinterpretation of something said. It will be good judgment to make sure your voice carries clearly, especially when conversing over the telephone. It is advisable that moderation be used in any form of social activity where any lack of it might bring about embarrassing complications. Married and engaged couples as well as those seriously in love, will find that offense will be quickly taken at any manner which borders on being dictatorial this day, so be diplomatic.

If a woman and May 4 is your birthday, you should be an unusual just person, having a sense of fairness that will help you greatly throughout your life. You ought to be gifted in the matter of handling money, and you probably will have a great deal of it at your disposal. You may trust comparative strangers too much, so use discretion in this regard, particularly if investments are involved. You possibly will have many admirers and gain popularity through your social activities. You may show exceptional ability as an artist, teacher, sales lady, broker, writer or interior decorator. You ought to have the happy faculty of making your married life a very happy one.

The child born on May 4 can be expected, as a rule, to be exceptionally intelligent. By the time it reaches its teens, it may display a decided talent for some particular line of activity.

If a man and May 4 is your natal day, be careful a love for your work does not interfere with your domestic happiness. Remember money is by no means everything. As a contractor, engineer, broker, artist, actor, author, clergyman or salesman you should have a brilliant future.

"Mashers" Get Service

Wewoka, Okla.—(P)—Flirtatious males who call operators at the Wewoka telephone exchange are discouraged by the girls' saying, "I'll connect you with the chief operator." Most "mashers" hang up upon hearing this, says Chief Operator Anna Mae Gregg.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York — This humble citizen, along with a large slice of the local population, has accepted with alacrity the return of the peanut season—the beginning of long summer afternoons when one may perch in the top tier of the Polo Grounds, behind first base, and munch goobers while the perspiring athletes of the Giants attempt to win another pennant for themselves.

It's like this—if you are a subway rider, you walk over to 8th avenue at 42nd street and get on the uptown express. This costs a nickel, and it whizzes up to 145th street, with stops only at 59 and 125.

That lets you out at the Polo Grounds, right, as the more poetic sports scribes say, in the lee of Coogan's Bluff.

Always, if it is a week day, the clergy is in evidence. Priests, rabbis and ministers are easily discernible waiting in line to pass through the press tunnel. They are avid fans, and there is significance to their presence here. The crafty baseball owners issue annual season passes to most clergymen—so that they will not feel inclined to mount their pulpits and rail against Sunday baseball.

Another thing about the Polo Grounds is the varied and multi-colored advertisements on the walls of the enclosure. "The Giant" wash with Kum-Klean soap. "The Giants ride in a Whozit car." "The Giants had a big bowl of oatmeal today."

It is a noisy assembly that reports daily to the championship games. The air is alive with raucous fragments of talk. . . . "Look at that lousy bum." . . . "Why doesn't Terry let Fitzsimmons pitch." . . . "Wait'll them Cards come to town." . . . "Isn't that Mungo warming up?" . . . "Oh, you Brooklyn, you dizzy Brooklyn."

Personally, I am concerned only with finding a sunny spot and the excellence of the day's goobers. Peanuts have a salutary effect on the nerves if the weather is right and the home athletes are winning. They occupy one physically and mentally. That they log you down and ruin your appetite is of little consequence. Somebody ought to write a book on the real science of peanut eating, as indulged by New Yorkers. For not even the movie are a better time-killer, and as muscle-developers they stand without a peer.

Maybe that's why so many New Yorkers have underslung jaws.

Dale Carnegie, the friend-winner, looks like a cross between a college professor and a Wall Street broker.

The Fascist regime asked an 80-year-old coastal chieftain if he could furnish twelve sailors.

The chief himself offered his services. With him came 200 volunteers. Twelve were chosen. "They don't come for salary, they want to fight," said the colonel.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington — Congress took one glance at the President's relief message and began selling housing and farm tenant legislation short.

When the President said "an increase in appropriations would of course nullify our efforts to prevent a deficit in 1938," he virtually asked congress to knock off the welfare business as far as convenient and stick to the business of balancing the budget. That, now, is the best welfare work.

"While I recognize many opportunities to improve social and economic conditions through federal action," he said, "I am convinced that the success of our whole program and the permanent security of our people demand that we adjust all expenditures within the limits of my budget estimates."

To undertake farm (tenant) legislation, even on an experimental basis suggested by the President before he heard the bad news about tax collections, would cost about $30,000,000 initially and more thereafter each year.

The Wagner housing bill proposes that the government shall back a $1,000,000,000 loan fund for home building and in addition put up an annual subsidy to make it possible for poorer people to have nicer homes for less rent. That item was expected to run about $400,000,000 spread over the next four years.

F. D. R. II Do Cutting
 The President made it quite clear that as far as the budget was concerned he wanted to do the cutting, not congress. He suggested that congress go ahead and appropriate in line with the budget. He conceded this would bring on a deficit of $418,000,000 for 1938, largely because of lagging revenues. But, he added:

"I propose to use every means at my command to eliminate this deficit during the coming fiscal year." He proposed to do it by two means, first by not spending as much as he asked congress to appropriate, and second by liquidating assets of certain emergency agencies.

Actually that is asking the executive to do what has been the job of congress in past years. Congress is still in session and could trim its own appropriations to balance the budget. But the President has asked to do it and it is a safe bet congress will agree. If for no other reason than that congress does not like the job of cutting anyway.

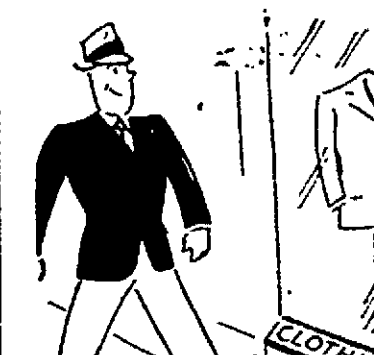

This situation, outlined in the message, sets out sharply a decided drift evident in the past two years toward giving the President the governing hand in how to spend the public money.

"They can live and fight hard on a little tea and bread."

Gypsies Raise Furor
 Pinsk, Poland.—(P)—Polish gypsies will meet soon here to select a successor to Mateas Kwiek, their king who died recently in Warsaw. There are several candidates since many gypsies refuse to accept Richard, Mateas' son, who is only a boy. Most sensational is the proposal of the gypsies from Gorlice (a mountain region in southeastern Poland), who want a queen instead of a king. They say their camp of 2,000 persons is so well managed by a woman that they want her to rule all the gypsies.

May Brand Trees
 Grand Junction, Colo.—(P)—Even the peach trees, out in the west, are not safe from "rustlers." Someone drove into F. R. Roe's orchard at night and stole 100 young trees from his nursery.

In the future nurserymen may resort to branding their trees, like stockmen brand cattle.

What's New at the Library

THE revival of interest in the history of the pioneer days of the United States carries with it an interest in some of the outstanding personalities of the time. A rapid-fire but accurate account of some of the most picturesque men of the old frontiers is given in "Wild Men of the West" by Edwin L. Sabin, which has been received recently at Appleton Public Library. Some of these men were on the side of law and order while others were on the opposite side, but the story tends to show that the outlaw and gunman invariably brought on their own sudden end. Such characters as Roaring Mike Fink, the smuggler, pirate, LaFitte of New Orleans and Galveston, Joaquin Murietta and Three-Fingered Jack, Wild Bill Hickok, Billy the Kid, and Calamity Jane appear in its pages.

Ardent baseball fans will appreciate the book, "Who's Who in the Major Leagues" by Harold (Speed) Johnson, which is new at the library. You can learn all about the players, managers and officials in the major leagues, and brush up on the official national league schedule for this year.

"Decency in Motion Pictures" by Martin Quigley is a declaration of principles, almost devoid of bias, and gives the background of the reform movement in the motion picture industry. It discusses some of the things that are to be avoided in movies if they are to have the good effect of which they are capable. There are chapters on book-keeping and other technical points of the industry.

A group of stories that will fascinate boys and girls, capture their imagination just as Grimm's Fairy Tales and other classics have done, are continued in the volume, "Stories of the Emerald Isle" by Burke and Wavle. The brilliant peasant of Ireland's story, her interesting and charming history, her great men, kings, etc., are given within its pages.

A composer and author of many books about music, Daniel Gregory Mason, calls his latest volume entitled "Tune In, America," a "study of our coming musical independence." He considers the effect on us, good and bad, of mechanical inventions such as the phonograph, movie and radio, and how new institutions such as school and college choruses, orchestra and bands are affecting our national taste.

Why Canada did not become the fourteenth American colony after the Revolution is explained in "The Province of Quebec" by A. L. Burt. The book opens with a picture of French Canada on the morrow of the conquest, and throws new lights on the social, political, economic, military, legal and administrative aspects of the period and the men who controlled the affairs of Quebec.

"A History of American Art" by Sadakichi Hartmann is an estimate of each individual artist and his relation to the times. The book is illustrated in duotone with the most representative masterpieces of American art.

Two books of cookery have been added to the shelves at the library. They are the "Alice Bradley Menu Cook Book" and "Cookies and More Cookies."

"Color Sketching in Chalk" by Donald Maxwell discusses the field of landscape and its most desirable medium, that of colored chalk. The author points out that there is no machinery or fuss needed, a sketch-book being the sum total of impedimenta.

Another cook book of a somewhat different nature from most is "Baby Epicure" by Elena Gilder-sleeve, in which the author, herself a mother, discusses diets and the problem of feeding children who have to be coaxed to eat.

What do the terms, "heavy water" and theory of relativity, mean to you? "Atoms, Men and Stars" by Rogers D. Rusk tells just what the new developments in science are, such as the electronic theory, Planck's constant, Einstein's relativity, cosmic rays, radio-activity and heavy water.

Also of a scientific nature is the book, "Master Minds of Modern Science" by T. C. Bridges and H. H. Tiltman, which is the story of discoveries in science the world over. Luther Burbank, the California plant wizard, John L. Baird's discoveries in television, Dr. R. A. Millikan and his discoveries of how matter is created, Curie and radium, Marconi, Einstein and others are discussed.

League Will Sponsor Training Institute

City officials have been invited to attend a training institute for municipal finance officers to be held by the League of Wisconsin Municipalities at Madison on Tuesday and Wednesday, May 18 and 19. Among the subjects which will be discussed are: disbursing municipal funds, suggestions on handling public deposits, pay roll procedure, professionalization of the public service, temporary borrowing, mortgage and revenue securities, borrowing from commissioners of public lands, 1937 financial legislation, how to prepare good municipal financial reports and securing necessary background in accounting fundamentals.

July 1 Deadline for Calf Club Registration

July 1 is the final date for registering calves for exhibition purposes. Outagamie county 4-H calf club members have been informed by R. C. Swanson, county agent.

The deadline applies to grade as well as purebred animals. Grade animals must have an ear tag registered at the state dairy records office before July 1 and purebreds must be registered in the club member's name. Club calves will be exhibited only during the latter part of the state fair this year, Swanson stated.

Canvass 1st District For Rubbish Tuesday

The first collection district will be canvassed for rubbish by street department workmen starting Tuesday morning. The district includes Drew street and all territory east of Drew street on the north side of the river, and West avenue and everything east of West avenue on the south side of the river.

Woman From Kaukauna Is Named to Job

MRS. JOHN SCHEIB, Kaukauna, was elected recording secretary of the Sheboygan class of Reformed and Evangelical churches at the eighteenth annual meeting Saturday at Kohler. Miss Louise Kippenhan, Appleton, was elected secretary of literature.

Other officers include Miss Louise Grether, Plymouth, who was named president and delegate to the St. Louis convention of the Evangelical Women's Union in June; Mrs. Oscar Welter, Sheboygan, vice president; Mrs. E. P. Nuss, Newton, corresponding secretary; and Miss Lydia de Keyser, Sheboygan, treasurer. Mrs. Scheib led a special conference of mission band leaders Saturday afternoon at the luncheon. Mrs. M. S. Benjamin, Milwaukee, spoke on "A Recent Visit to the Holy Land" at the afternoon session.

Using the new dishes which were recently bought for the Mt. Olive Lutheran church dining room, the Ladies Aid society will hold a 130 luncheon Wednesday afternoon at the church. Piano selections will be presented after the luncheon by Donald Gerlach, and a business meeting will follow. Mrs. Ed Mueller is chairman of the program.

Miss Hazel Verry, secretary of the Green Bay Y. W. C. A., will give an illustrated talk on Japan at the meeting of Circle 2 of First Congregational church at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ralph J. Watts, 442 E. John street. Miss Verry will be the guest of Mrs. Rufus M. Bagg while in Appleton. Mrs. A. H. Weston will be assistant hostess. Mrs. R. W. Getschow and Mrs. Charles Henderson are co-captains of the circle.

"Citizenship and Public Welfare" is the subject of a talk to be given by Dr. Gilbert S. Cox, pastor of First Methodist Episcopal church, at the meeting of Argosy club at 6:30 Tuesday evening at the Methodist church. Committee appointments for the year will be made.

Miss Mary de Jonge, reference librarian at Appleton Public library, will speak on "The Madonnas" at the meeting of Social Union of First Methodist Episcopal church at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon at the church. Mrs. Herbert L. Davis will be chairman of the program, and Mrs. J. Bon Davis' circle will be hostess.

The Rev. and Mrs. John W. Wilson, the Rev. John B. Hanna and Mrs. T. E. Orison are among the local people who will attend the annual meeting of the Winnebago conference of Congregational churches at New London Tuesday. The Rev. Mr. Hanna and Mrs. Orison will appear on the program.

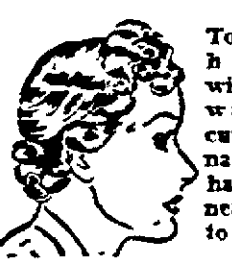

The Rev. F. C. Reuter and a delegation of women from the missionary society of First English Lutheran church will attend the convention of the central group of the state federation of Women's Missionary societies at the American Lutheran church Tuesday at Immanuel Lutheran church, Waupun. Mrs. Walter Koerner, Mrs. M. Woehler, Mrs. Edgar Sieth and Mrs. C. H. Huessman, Sr., are delegates and Mrs. A. Baehler and Mrs. F. M. Foor are alternates, but a number of others will probably attend.

May Day Party Is Held by Brownies At St. Mary School

Brownies of Pack 1 of St. Mary school entertained Brownies of Pack 2 at a return May day party Saturday afternoon at Columbia hall. The girls attended in costume and a feature was the awarding of prizes for the best. Martha Johnson of Pack 2 won the prize for the prettiest costume, and Barbara Franske of Pack 2 and Peggy Kools of Pack 1 received awards for the funniest costumes.

May baskets which the hostess Brownies had made at previous meetings were filled with popcorn and given to the girls, and a treasure hunt through the hall led to the refreshments. Games and songs took place with Miss Helen McGrath in charge assisted by Miss Margaret Walsh and Girl Scout helpers, Jane Morrell and Beatrice McLaughlin. Miss Evelyn Stallman, leader of Brownie Pack 2, accompanied her Brownie group.

LEADS ORCHESTRA

Jay Williams, above, will direct the Appleton Symphony orchestra in its final concert of the season Thursday night at Lawrence Memorial chapel. William Miller, the lyric tenor who has been called the American John McCormack, will be the guest artist.

Orchestra to Give Concert On Thursday

A varied program that will include a colorful overture, a rhythmic dance, several descriptive pieces and a march, as well as two groups of songs by William Miller, Chicago lyric tenor, will be presented by the Appleton Symphony orchestra when it plays its final concert of the season Thursday night at Lawrence Memorial chapel. Jay Williams will direct.

Mr. Miller, the guest artist, made his debut in Chicago in 1930 and since then has appeared frequently with symphony orchestras and over the radio. At present he is heard each week on four radio commercial programs, three of them over the national networks.

He was recently engaged by the St. Paul Civic Opera association to sing the leading role of Jenik in their production of "The Bartered Bride." Two days after his appearance here he will be soloist at the Cornell college festival in Mt. Vernon, Iowa, and on May 13 he will be soloist at the Northwestern festival in Evanston.

Parties

Miss Edna Wiegand of the Lawrence college faculty entertained at a luncheon Saturday afternoon at the Hearthstone Tea room. Miss Marguerite Woodworth, dean of women at the college, was guest of honor.

Another session in the contract bridge tournament which is held weekly at the Conway hotel will be held there Tuesday night. Reservations are being made with Mrs. H. A. DeBauer.

Nine tables of bridge were in play at a benefit party Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Roy Marston, 838 E. College avenue, by one of the activity groups of Appleton Women's club. Prizes at contract were won by Mrs. Elmer O'Keefe and Mrs. J. B. MacLaren, and at auction by Miss Ethel Carter and Miss Margaret Ritchie.

Mrs. Fred Stilt and Miss Katherine Derby won prizes at bridge. Joseph Calmes and Henry Koester at schafkopf and Fabian Jacobs and Mrs. John Doro at court whist. At the card party given by Appleton Apostolate members of Sacred Heart parish Sunday afternoon in the parish hall. Thirty-three tables were in play.

Plan Sweater Award At G. A. A. Banquet

Awards for activities during the year will be made at the Girl's Athletic association annual banquet at Hotel Appleton Tuesday evening May 4. The girl earning the largest number of points during the year will receive a G. A. A. sweater. Tennis and golf tournaments are being held at the high school now as the girls swing into the last month of school activity.

Club Will Hear Talk On Indians

JOSEPHINE Altman Case, Chicago, will speak on "Pueblo Indian Music and Exhibits" at the meeting of the Appleton branch of the American Association of University Women at 7:30 Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. George Banta, Jr., 305 Park street, Menasha. The speaker has traveled extensively through Mexico and the southwest, studying the Indians, their music and their art. She will bring exhibits with her. It will be the local association's last regular meeting of the season.

Another event in which the association is interested this week is the spring sale of old books, magazines, sheet music and phonograph records which will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week in the Wetzel building. The purpose is to raise funds for the Lawrence college scholarship which it gives each year to a girl graduate of Appleton High school. Mr. Carlton Saecker and Mrs. Herbert Davis are co-chairmen of the project.

St. Theresa Study club will meet at the parish hall Tuesday night following the novena devotions at the church. Mrs. Lena Lunjak will lead discussion on "The Liturgy and Catholic Lay Action," and hostesses will be Charles Fischer and Mrs. John Brock.

Mrs. Elmer Rehben, 1504 W. Franklin street, will be hostess to General Review club Tuesday night at her home. Mrs. R. Kubitz will have charge of the program.

The drama group of the American Association of University Women has cancelled its regular meeting scheduled for Tuesday because members will attend the dramatic program which will be given by George Kiernan Friday night at the First Congregational church. Mr. Kiernan will give an impersonation of the actor, Joe Jefferson, in the role of "Rip Van Winkle." The drama group's next regular meeting will take place May 18.

Mrs. Charles A. Green, 309 N. Drew street, will be hostess to Laetare Study circle at 2:15 Tuesday afternoon at her home. Discussion will take place on the essay, and suggestions for next year's program will be considered.

Appleton Men Present Program at Marinette

Francis Proctor and Marshall B. Hulbert of Lawrence Conservatory of Music presented a program Sunday night at First Methodist church, Marinette, under the auspices of the Marinette Women's club. Mr. Proctor presented organ selections and Mr. Hulbert gave several vocal numbers.

Mrs. Pierce Again Named Head of Sorority Alumnae

ALL officers of Phi Mu alumnae association were reelected at the annual reunion of the group over the weekend. They are Mrs. Eugene Pierce, Appleton, president; Mrs. Karl Hennig, Oshkosh, vice president; Mrs. H. J. Weller, Appleton, secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. Myra Hagen, editor of "I Oughta."

The climax of the weekend activities was an Hawaiian dinner Saturday night at Hearthstone tea room. Place cards and favors were tiny surfboards made by Edwin Losby, and the tables were decorated with coconut shells filled with flowers, and tiny glass huts. Hawaiian music was played during the dinner. Mrs. James Wagg, who was a patroness of the active chapter at Lawrence college, was a guest. About 30 persons attended. Mrs. Weller was chairman of the dinner and Mrs. Hagen had charge of decorations.

About 25 alumnae attended a luncheon Saturday noon at Conway hotel which was followed by a business meeting at the home of Mrs. Myra Hagen, River drive. Sunday dinner was served at Candle Glow tea room to 15 persons. Among the out-of-town alumnae who were present were Miss Myra McInnis, Watertown; Miss Dorothy Watson, Kenosha; Miss Ruth Wehe, Milwaukee; Mrs. Dan Hardt, Neenah; Mrs. W. B. Thompson, Iron Mountain, Mich.; Mrs. Douglas Vielmitt, Norway, Mich.; Miss Dorothy Symone, Waupun; Miss Esther Norris and Mrs. G. C. Kubitz.

Mrs. John Neller, 410 E. Washington street, returned home Saturday from Wausau, where she had spent the last several days. Mrs. Ella Morrison and Mrs. P. L. Halline, DePere, are guests for a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Ellis, 905 S. Memorial drive.

Mrs. Charles W. Spalding, Boston, Mass., is spending two weeks with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Spalding, 608 E. North street. Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Slavik, 416 N. Morrison street, spent the weekend in Elgin, Ill. On Wednesday Mrs. Slavik and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Miller, Winneconne, will go to Ironwood, Mich., to spend the remainder of the week there.

Mrs. John Neller, 410 E. Washington street, returned home Saturday from Wausau, where she had spent the last several days. Mrs. Ella Morrison and Mrs. P. L. Halline, DePere, are guests for a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Ellis, 905 S. Memorial drive.

High School Band Will Appear in Concert at Chapel Tuesday Evening

PARENTS and friends of the players, as well as other interested townspeople, will have an opportunity tomorrow night to hear what the Appleton High school band will sound like when it competes against other bands of the district in the tournament at Oshkosh Saturday. The band's concert at 8 o'clock Tuesday night at Lawrence Memorial chapel, under the direction of E. C. Moore, will include selections prepared by the band for the tournament.

There will be no admission charge to the concert, but a silver collection will be taken.

Members of the band are: Clarinets—John Fourness, Kathryn Pe-

Appleton People Attend Opera at Green Bay Club

Several Appleton people attended the opera, "Cavalleria Rusticana," last night at the Columbus club in Green Bay, presented by the music department of the club, before an audience of nearly 2,000 persons. The entire opera was put on by Green Bay talent, solo parts being sung by the Misses Eunice Nelson and Dorothy DuCharme, Norbert Holterman and Don Austin.

Features of the performance were a boys' choir of 32 grade school pupils, a chorus of 60 voices representing peasants and villagers, and a ballet by 16 high school girls. Musical accompaniment was played by an orchestra under the direction of Prof. Alex Enna, also of the music department of the club.

MacDowell Male Chorus Will Take Part in Convention

Appleton MacDowell Male chorus left this afternoon for Oshkosh where it will participate in a program this evening at the convention of the Wisconsin district of Associated Glee Clubs of America. A. A. Glickzin, Appleton, director of the MacDowell chorus, is vice president of the Wisconsin group.

A rehearsal is being held this afternoon with eight glee clubs of the state taking part, and there will be a banquet at 6:30 this evening. The concert is scheduled for about 8:15 this evening in the Recreation auditorium at Oshkosh, each chorus singing several numbers individually, and the entire eight clubs joining to sing four other selections. Each of the selections to be sung by the combined group will be directed by a different leader.

Miss Blanche Olson, soprano, will be guest soloist for the concert this evening, singing a solo role in the mass numbers and also taking part in one of the selections to be given by the Oshkosh Civic Male chorus.

Eight choruses which will participate in Monday's concert, are Oshkosh Civic Male chorus, host group, 56 members; MacDowell Male chorus of Appleton, 60 members; Elks Male chorus of Wausau, 40; Central State Male Glee club of Stevens Point; Y. M. C. A. Glee club of Green Bay; Shawano Male chorus; Fond du Lac Elks Male chorus, 22; and the Friesland, Wis., Male chorus.

Couple Is Married at Little Chute

THE marriage of Miss Helen Van Handle, daughter of John J. Van Handle, Little Chute, and Lewis McCormick, son of Mr. and Mrs. William McCormick, Tenth street, Kaukauna, took place Monday morning at 8 o'clock at St. John church, Little Chute. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John J. Sprangers and the attending couple was Miss Mayme McCormick of Kaukauna, sister of the bridegroom, and Clarence Van Handle of Little Chute, brother of the bride. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served to the immediate relatives at the Van Handle home and in the afternoon the couple left on a week's trip to Kingford, Mich. Mr. and Mrs. McCormick will reside in Kaukauna.

Mentzel-Boehrer

Miss Ethel Mentzel, daughter of Henry Mentzel, Milwaukee, and Henry Boehrer, Milwaukee, were married at the parsonage of the Emanuel Lutheran church at New London at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon by the Rev. W. E. Pankow, Miss Meta Mentzel, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and Sylvester LeBeau was best man. A reception and dinner attended by nearly 90 guests was held at the Mentzel home following the ceremony at the church. The couple will visit a few days at Milwaukee where the bridegroom has been employed. They will make their home on a farm near Amherst. Miss Mentzel returned home this spring after a year's employment at Milwaukee.

Le Noble-Fleming

Henrietta Le Noble, route 4, Appleton, and Orville Fleming, 406 Third street, Menasha, were married at 8:30 Saturday morning at the Most Precious Blood Catholic church, New London. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. Baier. The couple will reside in Menasha.

Hoffman-Boettcher

The marriage of Miss Alvira Hoffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hoffman, town of Belle Plaine, to Louis Boettcher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Boettcher, route 1, Clintonville, took place at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Belle Plaine Lutheran church, the Rev. John Polatz performing the ceremony. Attending the couple were the bridegroom's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Boettcher, Clintonville, the bride's sister, Miss Irene Hoffman, and William Miller, Clintonville. A reception and dinner for relatives were held at the home of the bride's parents, and in the evening there was a dance at the Rustic resort at Cloverleaf lake. The couple will make their home on a farm which they recently purchased several miles west of Clintonville.

Civil Marriage Rites

Stuttgart—Church folk view with alarm the efforts of the Nazi regime to make civil marriage so solemn an act that many Germans will regard the blessing of the church as unnecessary. The marriage clerk's office of Stuttgart is taking the lead in offering church "ersatz." The ceremony is no longer conducted in cold, business-like offices, but in a church-like hall. There is music and stately and solemnity connected with the ceremony.

Mrs. Wettengel Is Back From National Women's Clubs Meet

Mrs. George R. Wettengel, 915 E. Alton street, returned last night from Tulsa, Okla., where she attended the national convention of General Federation of Women's Clubs as delegate-at-large from the state of Wisconsin. She is also district chairman of adult education for the eighth district.

The convention opened last Monday and closed Friday noon with the passing of a number of resolutions, among them a resolution opposing the alteration of the supreme court. Previously a vote had been taken by mail among the federation members and the results were overwhelmingly against alteration. Mrs. Wettengel said.

Mrs. A. L. Blackstone, Waukesha, president of Wisconsin Federation of Women's Clubs, was named chairman of the program for the next council meeting which will be the triennial meeting next year in Kansas City, Mo., at which officers will be elected. The convention delegates and visitors were entertained at a horse show, a barbecue and rodeo Friday afternoon after the close of the convention. Mrs. Wettengel and 18 other Wisconsin women took a special train to the convention from Chicago.

Defenders Can Signal By Leading Right Card

BY ELY CULBERTSON

In addition to the information you give your partner when you make an opening lead, you can signal with every play you make in defending against an opponent's contract.

When playing a card with the intention of winning a trick play the lowest card you hold which is sufficient for the purpose. If your partner leads a suit of which you have K-Q-J, play the jack. This, you will notice, differs from the procedure in leading. You lead the highest card in sequence; you follow suit (when you have a chance to win the trick) with the lowest card in sequence.

In ruffing a lead of a suit of which you are void (with intention to win the trick) you play your lowest trump which will win the trick.

TODAY'S HAND.

Here is a hand that created an enormous swing in a recent team-of-four tournament.

East, dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ 7 4 3
♥ J 6
♦ A 3 9 4

WEST
♠ A 9
♥ K 7 5 4
♦ K 10 8 6 3

SOUTH
♠ K 10 6 5 2
♥ 8
♦ None
♣ A 3 8 3 2

With both sides vulnerable, in one room East and West were permitted to hold the contract at five hearts, which they had no difficulty in making, losing only one diamond and one club. This gave E-W a plus score of 650.

In the other room the bidding was fiercely competitive, as follows:

East South West North
1 heart 1 spade 2 diamonds 3 spades
Pass 4 spades 5 hearts Pass
Pass 6 diamonds 6 diamonds Double
6 hearts 6 spades Double Pass

In my opinion, West should have bid three hearts over the one spade, instead of two diamonds, but probably the future bidding would have been just the same. It was West's opening lead against the six spade contract that created the enormous swing.

For reasons known only to himself, West decided to open the king of diamonds. This lead must have seemed like manna in the desert to declarer. He promptly chucked his losing heart on the diamond ace, knocked out the opening trumps in two leads, ruffed the heart return, and entering dummy with a third trump, successfully finessing against the club king. Two club ruffs in dummy then established the club suit and easily brought home twelve tricks.

With first round control of the opponents' trump suit, it seems to me that any opening lead other than the singleton club was foolish. South's hand could be visualized as almost entirely spades and clubs. No other holding would justify his bidding. Certainly there was more chance that dummy who had doubled six diamonds held the ace than the heart ace, and thus, even if declarer had only one red card, a heart opening could do no harm. If declarer was so fortunate as to hold six spades, two diamonds, and five clubs and were able to ruff an opening heart lead, then to knock out adverse trumps, and later to throw off dummy's losing diamond on a long club suit, this would depend on East's inability to stop the club suit. On East's bidding it was almost certain that he had such a club stopper and, therefore, this eventuality should not have been feared.

Obviously, a club opening followed by the first round take of the spade ace and then followed by a heart shift would have given the defenders the ace of spades, the ace of hearts, and a club ruff. Instead of the opponents making six spades doubled for 1,610 points, they would have gone down 500.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: What is the proper opening bid on the following?

♠ A 3 8, ♥ A Q J 8, ♦ J 7 5, ♣ 10 8.

Stanley's Adventures in Africa

I-START OF A GREAT JOURNEY

Henry Stanley was born in Wales, and his name at first was John Rowlands. Becoming an orphan at the age of two, he spent most of his childhood in a workhouse. At the age of 18, he obtained a place as a cabin boy aboard a vessel which sailed to New Orleans. There he was adopted by a merchant named Henry Morton Stanley, and his name was made the same as his foster-father's. The merchant died two years later, and left the young man nothing but his name.

Henry Stanley

During his young manhood, Stanley passed through a series of adventures, then became a reporter for the "New York Herald." The newspaper sent him to Spain, and also to Ethiopia. Later he was asked to make a journey into a wild part of eastern Africa to find a lost explorer named David Livingstone. Meeting success on this trip, the reporter became world-famous.

When Livingstone died, Stanley said to himself: "The work of this great man must not be stopped. I will go on with it myself, and will explore parts of Africa never visited by white men before."

After making ready on the island of Zanzibar, some miles off the east-central coast of Africa, Stanley set out on his journey. His party was made up of three white men besides himself, and 350 natives. With them they took a supply of food, along with bales of cloth and trinkets which they expected to use in trading with savage tribes along the way. They also carried a boat called the "Lady Alice." The boat was in sections which could be put together when needed.

It was a mid-November day in the year 1874 when the start was made. At first they traveled straight westward, then turned north toward Lake Victoria.

The food taken on the trip was made up of rice, tea and other things which would last a long time without spoiling. For fresh meat, the men had to trust to game they might obtain by hunting.

During the first few weeks there was no trouble about food—meat and antelope supplied enough meat. Later, however, the party had to pass through a waste country, where game was hard to find. The rations were so small that some of the men grew weak. The bites of insects added to the misfortune, and there also came weeks of wet weather in which they could not travel. They guarded themselves as well as they could from the pouring rain by staying inside tents.

Inside of two months, Stanley lost more than 30 pounds in weight. Some of the natives fell sick, suffering from fever and other ailments. Before the end of January, 19 of the natives had died, and 89 had left the party to go back to their homes. One of the white men also died, a victim of typhoid fever.

Parents Usually Unaware Of Changes in Children

BY ANGELO PATRI

Have you looked at the children lately? How long ago did you take time to look intently at them and really see them? Six weeks? Six years? When? Children grow steadily and silently. The changes come so slowly and so unobtrusively that there is a different child in the house before you are aware.

Habits grow upon children swiftly. You hadn't noticed that Ronny's manners were so bad until he failed to greet your guest last evening and humiliated you by his boorish behavior. You hadn't noticed that twit in Caroline's face until the teacher mentioned it and said that it had been there for some time. The crib must have shrunk, or something, for you hadn't noticed that the baby had outgrown it and was making a fuss every bedtime now, because he wanted a bed like a big boy's bed. "Funny how children change overnight."

We don't see them change. We keep seeing them as we saw them at first, helpless little things in their mother's arms. Worse than that, we keep right on treating them as if they were still the helpless infants of our first acquaintance instead of children, youths, young people in need of outlets for personal feelings, tastes and desires.

One girl of eighteen is still getting the one-dollar-a-month allowance that her father gave her when she entered sixth grade in elementary school though she is a senior high school girl ready for college. Father has not noticed that daughter has been growing.

Another girl in her twenties is not allowed to receive the boys in her home because father and mother have not realized that daughter has grown into a young woman with a young woman's interest, needs and desires.

There is a boy whose arms stick out of his sleeves like broom handles, whose legs stretch far beyond the short expanse of his knickerbockers. He hates to be seen and begs for knickerbockers, but father and mother see him is the little boy in rompers, not as the fledgling, half feathered.

There is a little boy and a little girl in their early teens who never have been away from home for a single day since they were born into it. They never have gone anywhere without father or mother beside them. They are longing to go with the Scouts and the Campfires, longing to go to camp as other boys and girls do, but father and mother see their babies still, not the eager youngsters rarin' to go on their own.

If this did not injure the children, mar their growth and strain their

Chin Straps Help, Says Miss Pierce

About Double Chins and Chin Straps

Mrs. C. D.: Indeed, I believe in chin straps and if you can afford some of the ready made ones, fine. There are new straps that are cap and strap in one, keeping your wave in and your chin muscles up. If you do not wish to buy one you can easily make a strap of gauze do. My Facial Resume includes directions for making a tie-up at home. You ask whether the strap should be worn all night. No. I honestly feel that an hour or two during the day while reading, resting, sewing or going about household duties is better than an entire night's support. The support may make you feel too uncomfortable while you sleep. Also, since we never sleep in one position an entire night, the head is twisted and turned so that the support cannot do its best work. You may have my Facial Resume bulletin or my bulletin on Sagging Muscles and Double Chin—and with either one ask for my Chin and Neck Exercises when you write again. And please enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

How to Care for the Hair Brush

"Roommate": I heartily agree with you that there is no use brushing the hair at all if it is brushed with a brush that is very unclean. Since you say you are afraid to mention this to your Roommate, for fear of offending her, I can only suggest that you make it a point to have her see you cleaning your own brush regularly. You might also send for my bulletins called "Care for Your Toilet Articles and They Will Serve You Better." I also have a bulletin on Brushing the Hair and Caring for the Brush (instruction for cleansing the brush in either one). When you receive this, nonchalantly happen to pick it where she can see it. That might do the trick.

Super-Sensitive Skin

S. S. S.: You say your skin is irritated and that it stings and burns no matter what cream or lotion you use. It seems from your description that your skin is super-sensitive and allergic. Have you ever tried preparations specially made for you without any perfume. Sometimes the skin is allergic to the perfume. However, it would be difficult to determine whether this is so in your case. You might have a particular skin idiosyncrasy that responds to some chemical. I can only advise you to continue the mild, bland castile soap that you find does not irritate, and to try a perfume-less cleansing cream and skinfood and see what happens. It is particularly unfortunate that your skin, which is dry, and needs cream should not respond favorably to its use.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

BY EMILY POST

A YOUNG BRIDE AND A NOT-SO-YOUNG BRIDEGROOM

Dear Mrs. Post: Somewhere I read the answer to a question asked by a young bride, who was marrying a man more than twice her age, to the effect that she ought not to have the big wedding that she had always dreamed of, since it would be thoughtless of her not to consider the feelings of the bridegroom, who would hate all such frills at his age. Don't you think this is an unfair attitude and that he should be willing to let her have the big day of her life as she pleases?

Unsympathetic, but it seems to me that the prospects are not very bright for the future life of his young bride, if he is so old that he rates all such frills. On the subject of the wedding plans, the only drawback to a real wedding with many ushers and bridesmaids is that at all the wedding festivities the ushers are likely to be old enough to be the bridesmaids' fathers.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am the youngest of four daughters, younger by about fifteen years than the sister next in age. While the difference in ages is great we have always been very close to one another, and without hesitation I would ask all three sisters to be my attendants were it not for the fact that each one has a daughter more nearly my own age and of whom I am very fond. I know these nieces would be lovely bridesmaids. The fourth attendant will be a sister of my fiancée who is my age, and whom I would not want to omit. Under the circumstances, do you think I should have my sisters or my nieces?

Answer: I think it would be much more suitable to have your young nieces as bridesmaids—after all remember the word is properly "maid"—than to have matrons who affection for home and parents, it would not matter. But it does all this and much more. It breeds rebellion, and that leads to mental illness, bad behavior, sad mistakes.

Try to keep pace with the growth of the children and see them more as they are rather than as the dream children of long ago. It is hard to part with a chinny-chinny, but it is much harder to have to face a rebellious angry broken-hearted child. Let the children grow up even though every gain tug at your heart strings. By letting them go you keep them. That is the only way you ever will be able to keep them.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three cent stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

Family Ties Not Easily Broken Through Marriage

BY DOROTHY DIX

A young man who belongs to a fine and cultured family that for generations has stood for the things that are the most admirable in humanity has fallen in love with a pretty girl who was born and reared "on the wrong side of the tracks," as the phrase goes, and whose people are uneducated, shiftless and thriftless and given to drunken brawls. Naturally, the boy's parents object strenuously to the match. "But," says the enamored youth, "I am marrying Rosie. I am not marrying her family."

DOROTHY DIX

They are not more firmly wedded to each other than they are to each other's families; that nothing but death or the divorce court can part them from each other's parents, sisters, brothers, cousins, aunts and all the affliction and drawbacks that go with them.

Of course, the men and women who marry into families below them think that to separate their wives and husbands from their own people is as simple as it is to pluck are considerably older than you or the groom, or his attendants. Moreover, I have an idea that your sister would prefer that their daughters have the delight of being "lovely bridesmaids."

Dear Mrs. Post: My fiancé insists that he will have his father as his best man. I personally have never heard of asking a father to stand with the bridegroom and wonder whether it will be considered by others to be a queer arrangement. Answer: I am not certain of the number but I have known about a dozen bridegrooms who have had their fathers—two cases their stepfathers—for best men. Even so it is perhaps unusual but not at all improper, and certainly it signifies evidence of beautiful family comradeship. In the cases that I remember the fathers have been very young—in their early forties—but I don't know that this is important.

Since should there be bridesmaids forty and sixty seem much the same to young girls of eighteen.

ried her family and took them on to support.

Furthermore, every one who takes a husband or wife not only marries their families but also all that they have done and been for centuries. All of us are what heredity and environment have made us. Our traits of character come down to us through long lines of ancestors. Our principles, our points of view, our habits, our manners and our morals are what our fathers and mothers taught us.

If parents have a high code of conduct, and they live up to it; if they are broad-minded and just and generous; if they are honest and honorable; if they are industrious and ambitious, ninety-nine times out of a hundred their children will be that way, too, and safe matrimonial bets. Good families to marry. But a man or woman is taking a long shot at happiness who marries a woman or man whose family tree has borne only rotten fruit.

Hence the young should quit deluding themselves with the fallacy that when they marry they only marry the individual, not his or her family. John marries Mary's mother's virtues or her faults; her culture, her thriftiness, her slovenliness, OR her ignorance, her slovenliness, her loose morals. Mary marries John's father's good quality or his bad; his courage, his uprightness, his chivalry, OR his meanness, his stinginess, his belief that a wife is nothing but an unpaid servant who calls for no consideration.

And inasmuch as this is true and that when you marry you marry the whole family, it is just as important to pick out the kind of family you desire for life companions as it is to choose the individual man or woman you want for a husband or wife. DOROTHY DIX. (Copyright, 1937)

My Neighbor Says—

To protect young plants from cutworms apply a dressing of hardwood ashes to the soil in which bulbs and young plants are growing. Then soak the ground with water from garden hose or put dressing on during a heavy rainstorm. This application destroys the pest.

Have you seen the attractive paper draperies that are for sale in the large department stores? They come in pink, green, black and white and in many other colors. Some have ruffles on edges and tops, some are made in cottage curtain style. For summer cottages they are ideal, colorful and inexpensive.

Two 'tablespoons chili sauce or catsup poured over top meat loaf when half baked gives a good flavor and rather crusty covering.

Old Gardener Says:

By E. I. Farrington

Verbenas are sturdy standbys which will withstand a lot of dry weather and adverse conditions. This year's introduction, Crimson Glow, is described by its name. It is a glowing crimson and does not have the usual white eye. Persons who do not like high colors in the garden may object to it for this reason, but it nevertheless has many possibilities. If used in a bed at the edge of the lawn or against a shrub border, the effect is excellent. If, however, a verbeena is desired, which has flowers not quite so brilliant, the new Floradale Beauty is suggested. The flowers vary from a rose-pink to a rose-red and the flowers are unusually large.

Washington—Chemists of the bureau of mines have found a way to switch the suffocating strength of "black damp" to mine fires instead of miners.

"Black damp" is the term applied to a white solid in oxygen and taken on carbon dioxide. The mixture has killed many underground workers.

The chemists first decided the "critical" oxygen values, below which atmospheres must be maintained to prevent explosions and smother fires; then determined the mixture of synthetic "black damp" necessary to choke out the two dangers.

Fires and explosions require a certain amount of oxygen to occur, just as humans need it to survive.

"Skunks' Legislators Des Moines, Ia., (AP)—Legislators squirmed, sniffed and looked at one another—yes, there was a skunk somewhere in the statehouse.

A search proved their suspicions correct. There was a dead one in a paper bag at the west entrance. The statehouse custodian removed it. About that time an irate farmer telephoned newspaper say he had left the skunk to emphasize his utter disgust of the senate's bill placing a closed season on skunks in his county. He said the dead skunk was one which broke into his chicken yard and killed eight pheasants and three chickens.

Lawrence Scores Rulings Against Freedom of Speech

Many Interpretations of Wagner Labor Act Still To Be Settled

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—There seems to be a rather general impression that, because the supreme court of the United States upheld the Wagner labor act as constitutional in five specific cases brought before it, the act is constitutional and valid in every respect. As a matter of fact, there are rulings already proclaimed by the National Labor Relations board which, if tested in a given lawsuit before the supreme court in the future, might result in an entirely different decision as to constitutionality on that point.

A good example—in fact, a very vital one—is the attitude being assumed by the National Labor Relations board toward freedom of speech.

Everybody but the labor board is apparently aware that the first article of the bill of rights section of the constitution of the United States says:

"Congress shall make no law . . . abridging the freedom of speech."

To be sure, congress has passed no such law, but by the same token, no administrative agency or commission can pass such a law or regulation or interpret any law in such a way as to abridge the freedom of speech.

Yet a careful examination of the rulings of the National Labor Relations board and its first annual report will demonstrate that any American citizen who happens to be employed can no longer be guaranteed freedom of speech if their speeches in any way relate to their relations with employers.

Board Gets Record

In several instances where employees have been addressed by employers, the record of what has been said has been presented before the National Labor Relations board as evidence of an attitude amounting to a potential threat or intimidation of employees in their rights of collective bargaining.

The Wagner labor act says: "It shall be an unfair labor practice for an employer to interfere with, restrain, or coerce employees in the exercise of the rights guaranteed in section 7 (rights of collective bargaining)."

What is interference, or restraint, or coercion? Clearly, an employer who threatens to dismiss an employee if he joins a union or an employer who attempts to invade the secrecy of a ballot in an election or otherwise interposes some force to prevent employees from making a free choice of representatives to speak for them is guilty of violating the Wagner act.

Is It Violation?

But is an employer who stands up before his employees in mass meeting and tells them what he thinks about unionism, or about the union they are being asked to join, guilty of "coercion" or "restraint"? Assuming that every workman has an opportunity to cast a secret ballot and the nature of his vote is guarded from the employer's eye, can it be said that a speech made to employees is a violation of the law?

There have been speeches of this kind made, but the labor board has insisted that they were related to some potential threat or form of coercion. Today many employers are being asked by employees who have been with them for decades just what they are to do. Some employees prefer an organization or union confined wholly to members of their plant. They want an independent union which is divorced from any control, or financing by management, but is nevertheless connected with outside unions. Can they, when asking the advice of the employers, be given any counsel by the employer? Has an employer no right to address a mass meeting of his employees if they wish to hear him discuss the pros and cons of unionization?

The regional labor board at Cincinnati, which is a division of the National Labor Relations board, says that, if the employees in a plant want a "company" union or an independent union or any other kind of a union and a majority vote for it, they may, under the Wagner act, have such form of organization. But it says that the National Labor Relations board considers any such advice, when given by an employer, to be a violation of the act. Thus, in a decision on Feb. 9, 1935, the national labor board, then a part of the NRA, expressed itself on this very point. It should be noted that all decisions made by the national labor board when it was operating under NRA were specifically validated by a provision of the Wagner act when it was passed in July, 1935. All these decisions now are issued by the National Labor Relations board and are therefore official precedents.

It appears that Mr. Harris, general manager of a Los Angeles Electric Railway company, addressed all the other employees of the company and said:

"Many of the employees have asked regarding the joining of some union or association as many of them seem to be of the opinion that they would rather not be associated with any union or organization. Personally, I am rather in accord with these employees. As you all know I have never been in favor of labor organizations but, as the NRA allows for organization or joining of labor organizations, and as we have stated that we intend to comply with the rules of NRA, you have the privilege to do what you think is in your best interest, but I can't help but feel that if you form an association of your own, you will be best served."

"Naturally, in the matter of collective bargaining, I would prefer to deal with people that I have known for years and been associated with. I do want to point out to you that it is the duty of every member of this organization to cooperate with our president and our legislative bodies as nearly as possible 100 per cent in order that we may have our share in bringing back the much needed prosperity of this country."

The foregoing speech was accepted by the board as evidence of an attitude which the board insisted was related to subsequent discharge of union men.

Labor spokesmen, including Senator Wagner of New York, ask why employers should in any way advise their employees about unionization, that this is a matter solely between employees. Employers take the position that it is a matter which concerns the welfare of the company and its opportunity to continue operations uninterrupted by strikes. In some instances, employers feel that the union in question has organizers who are unscrupulous and that the men are being intimidated and coerced. The National Labor Relations board, in its annual report, June 1936, reveals its own preconceived position on this point by declaring:

Termed "Propaganda"

"A very common form of propaganda is that which attempts to convince employees that unions and union organizers serve ulterior purposes and are not at all interested in the welfare of the workers. Thus, employers frequently denounced unions as racketeers or to organizers as racketeers."

Nowhere in the report is the possibility conceded that some of these employers may in certain instances be right. Examples of racketeer unions and their activities can be found in the files of the department of justice. But no employer apparently may warn his faithful employees against such abuses just because some employers, in their antagonism to proper labor organizations, overstep the bounds of propriety.

The cardinal question, however, is employers have any rights of free speech where their employees are concerned, even though their speeches may be like some of the extreme speeches heard at union square in New York, which are close to the borderline of incitement to action.

Will Seek Ruling

If labor insists that matters between employees are outside the concern of the employer, then the employer will some day ask the congress and the courts to rule more specifically on the subject of the employer's relations with his customers. Union labor heretofore has cherished the right to boycott, the right to interfere in the employer's business and indeed to coerce them. If the employer's right of free speech is to be cut off, then some day a movement will be logically advanced to curtail the employer's right of free speech in seeking to restrain customers from entering a shop where allegedly labor is being unfairly treated.

There are plenty of interpretations of the Wagner act which will have to be passed upon by the judiciary. The supreme court has not violated the common law or the statutory provisions of other laws just because it has upheld the principle of compulsory mediation itself.

Twenty-three new readers registered with the library during the period and 102 new books were added to the collection. Attendance at the library during the month totaled 3,174 persons including 408 teachers, 286 rural visitors and 1,948 students. A total of 193 pupils received assistance at the library while 429 books were mended by members of the staff. Fines for the month totaled $18.12.

School Music Groups To Present Concert

Neenah—A pre-tournament concert will be presented by the Neenah High school band, the Girl's glee club and the Boy's Glee club and the junior band of over 50 pieces at the school auditorium at 8 o'clock Thursday evening.

Music students are selling tickets to defray expenses to the tournament at Oshkosh Saturday, May 8. Solo and ensemble competition was staged at New London Saturday with Neenah making an excellent showing, according to Lester Maist, public school music instructor. About 25 schools participated.

TWO ARE SENTENCED

Neenah—William Smith and James Bryant, both colored transients, were each sentenced to 30 days in the Winnebago county jail by Judge Gaylord C. Loehning in justice court Saturday afternoon when they pleaded guilty to charges of vagrancy. The men were the first to appear before Judge Loehning, who began his term of office Saturday. They were arrested by Neenah police Saturday after merchants complained of begging and attempted short changing.

The Twin Cities office of the Appleton Post-Crescent for its editorial, circulation and advertising departments is located at 510 N. Commercial street and the telephone number is 4100. News items, copy or orders for advertising and orders for subscriptions may be left at the office or may be telephoned. This num- ber 4100 may be called be- fore 7 o'clock in the eve- ning for delivery of pa- pers missed by carriers in Neenah or Menasha.

TRACK CAPTAIN WINS IN HIGH JUMP

Chester Wittenborn, captain of the Neenah High school track team is shown winning the high jump event during the track meet between Neenah and Kaukauna at Neenah Saturday afternoon. Wittenborn, holding a part-time job after school hours, had not been able to practice before the meet but won by clearing the bar at 5 feet 2 inches. He took first place in the broad jump with a leap of 19 feet 1 inch. Neenah won the meet, 63 to 44. (Post-Crescent Photo.)

Menasha High Journalists Suggest Theme Songs for Various Classes

Menasha—Students at Menasha High school have gone musical in their contributions to the Nicolet News, high school newspaper, as witness, in the last issue, suggested theme songs for the various courses and a parody on the well known "Trees" by Joyce Kilmer.

Following is the parody:
"I think that I shall never see
A 'D' as lovely as a 'B'."

A "B" whose rounded form is pressed
Upon the records of the bleat.
A "D" comes easily, and yet
It isn't easy to forget
That "D's" are made by fools like me,
But only work can make a "B".

In another article, entitled, "Rhythm in Your Studies," an enterprising contributor suggests theme songs for the various classes and familiar objects in school. Among the song suggestions, are:

Neenah Society

Neenah—Hostesses for the luncheon of the Woman's Tuesday club at the Hearstone at Appleton Tuesday will be Mrs. S. F. Shattuck, Mrs. H. K. Babcock, Miss Virginia Beals and Mrs. Karl Mory. At 2:30 the club will meet in Lawrence Memorial Chapel at which time, L. K. Maesch, associate professor of organ at Lawrence College conservatory of music will present a lecture. This meeting will close the club season until October.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Prentice and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Prentice, 217 W. North Water street, spent Sunday in Dale where Floyd Prentice and his twin brother, Lloyd, celebrated their fifty-first birthday anniversaries. Cards were played during the afternoon. About 20 relatives and friends attended the party.

The Ladies society, Trinity Lutheran church will meet at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in the parish hall.

Twin City club will meet at 2:15 Tuesday afternoon at the Y. W. C. A. Bridge will be played and hostesses are Mrs. Harry Smith and Mrs. Emil Haldeman.

Election of officers will feature the business session of the Washington School Parent Teachers association Wednesday, May 12 at the school. The kindergarten pupils will present a circus play which they have been working on in project activity the last several weeks. Mrs. N. C. Jersild is president of the association.

Betty club will meet at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Katherine Terrio, Congress street.

Miss Marie Gallmeier was guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower Friday night at the home of her mother, Mrs. Archie Jones, Main street, when girls employed at the Twin City Telephone company entertained for her. Cards were played during the evening and prizes were won by Miss Lucille Longhurst, Mrs. Esther Messman, Miss Mildred Jourdain and Miss Gladys Lindland.

Knight's Templar will meet at 7:30 Tuesday at Masonic temple for a monthly meeting.

Miss Laura Eisenach, Harrison street, will be hostess to the Officers' club of the Women's Benefit association at 7:30 this evening.

Miss Mathilda Dunning and Miss Anna Gram entertained twenty-five guests at a luncheon bridge at Stein's Tea room in Oshkosh Saturday in honor of Miss Clara Roemer, who is to be married May 20 to Norman Adams, Fond du Lac. Honors in bridge went to Mrs. Karl Wingren, Miss Ruth Backus, Miss Helen Peterson and Mrs. Quirem Ewen, Chicago.

The Y. T. and F. club will close its club season Tuesday with a luncheon at Stein's Tea room after which officers will be elected.

The Council meeting of sixth district Veterans of Foreign War auxiliaries will be held at 1:30 Sunday, May 9 at Oshkosh to elect a council member. All V. F. W. auxiliary members are urged to attend.

The Equitable Reserve association will sponsor a public game party for the benefit of the Neenah Merchants' baseball team at the arts, "Strike Me Pink," biology, "The Animal in Me."

Bookkeeping, "I Can't Do That Sum," chemistry, "I Believe in Miracles," English, "Pardon My Southern Accent," French, "Paris in the Spring," history, "Christopher Columbus," Latin, "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life," mathematics, "Take a Number From One to Ten," and "I'd Rather Lead a Band," report cards, "Just One More Chance," tests, "Did I Remember," the clock, "I Only Have Eyes For You," 3:10 in the afternoon, "You're All I Need," vacations, "Footloose and Fancy Free," when teachers say no home work, "I've Got a Feeling," "You're Fooling," and homework, "I Can't Escape From You."

Another masterpiece was contributed apparently by a stenography student and was labeled "Song of a Deserted Boss." A footnote enlightened readers that the verse could be sung to the tune of "My Bonnie Lies Over the Ocean." Following is the verse:

"My typist id on her vacation
May typist's away by the sea;
My typist on his home Friday
Og bling baxl me typist to me
Og wring vack mi t'pudy to me;

Police Still Seek
Missing Neenah Man
Neenah—John Stacker, 64, 728 Harrison street, Neenah, who disappeared from his home Friday afternoon is still missing and Neenah police have uncovered no clue as to his whereabouts.

Fearing that the missing man met with a mishap, searching parties have combed the immediate vicinity but have found no trace of the man. It was feared he fell into the slough or Little Lake Butte des Morts.

Stacker, a retired employee of the Hardwood products company, left his home about 1 o'clock Friday afternoon and did not return for supper. Police were notified and an all-night search was instituted to no avail.

Committee Will Propose Paving Of Commercial St.

Council to Discuss Im- provement at Meeting Wednesday Evening

Neenah — A recommendation that the city council proceed with advertising for bids on the N. Commercial street paving and widening project will be presented at a meeting of the council in the city hall at 7:30 Wednesday evening, according to a decision reached by members of the committee on public improvements during a meeting at the city hall Saturday afternoon.

Alternate bids on concrete, sheet asphalt and a cold black top dressing will be sought for the N. Commercial street improvement project from W. North Water street to Nicolet boulevard. The committee will recommend to the council that a proposal offering $17,500 in cash and salvage of rails offered by the Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co. in full settlement of all future obligations be accepted.

Seek Sewers
Petitions for sanitary sewers on Division street, W. Adams street and Stevens street were approved and the city engineer, A. G. Frummu, was instructed to establish street levels on Grove street, Stevens street and Eleventh street for the installation of curb and gutters.

The group decided to recommend that the city install all sewer laterals in the future instead of permitting private contractors to do the work. The finance committee will meet at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening to consider "mont" bills and water works commission will meet at 7:30 this evening.

The board of health met Saturday afternoon to consider the extermination of rats as offered by a Green Bay concern to merchants at a cost of $54 a year. Merchants, who have not contracted for the service, feared their business places would be infested with rats if establishments. It was thought the city would purchase a quantity of rat poison and sell it to local merchants at cost.

Police Report 2 Car Accidents

No One Injured in Trio of Minor Mishaps at Menasha

Menasha—Three minor accidents were reported to Menasha police over the weekend on Menasha streets, according to Alex Slomski, chief of police.

Cars driven by Tony Krzykowski, route 1, Menasha, and Robert Reinhardt, 114 Lawson street, Menasha, collided at the intersection of River and Tayco streets. The Krzykowski machine was going east on River street and Reinhardt was traveling south on Tayco street at the time of the accident. Both machines were slightly damaged.

A car owned by Elmer Horn, 1308 Drive street, Appleton, and driven by his brother, Henry, was badly damaged in a collision with a machine driven by John Knorr, route 1, Menasha. The Appleton auto was going north on Washington street while the Menasha car was going south on Washington. The cars sideswiped each other in passing.

When Leonard Benkoski, 53 Union street, Ripon, stopped at the arterial at the intersection of Third and DePeere streets, he was struck in the rear by a car driven by Verne Brown, route 1, Winneconne, police reported. Both machines were traveling east on Third street when the accident occurred. Only slight damage resulted. No one was injured in any of the mishaps.

Menasha Society

Menasha—Mrs. S. E. Crockett, state regent, Catholic Daughters of America, was guest speaker at the Young Ladies Sodality breakfast meeting at St. Patrick Catholic school hall Sunday. Mrs. Crockett stressed the need of Catholic leaders which must be found in Catholic youth. She complimented the Sodality members on the work they have accomplished and urged them to continue "the splendid work you can do anything you set out to do if you have the will to do it. You are fortunate to have sodality in which you can accomplish so much."

Dykstra Ponders Wisdom of Life In Costly Mansion

New University President
Expected to Live in $90,000 Home

Madison—A man who likes his slippers, a good pipe and a fireplace is pondering the wisdom of home-life in a $90,000 mansion. He is Clarence A. Dykstra, new University of Wisconsin president, who will be expected to move into the many-roomed brick house donated to the university by the late John M. Olin, Madison attorney, for a presidential residence.

The house is now occupied by Dr. Dykstra's predecessor, Dr. Glenn Frank, who was discharged by the board of regents last January. Dr. Frank's contract permits him to use the residence until July 1 and he has given no indication of vacating before that time. Mr. Dykstra and his family, meanwhile have arrived in Madison and have taken other quarters.

The house figured prominently in Dr. Frank's "trial" before the regents. He was charged—among other things—with "extravagant expenditures for household furnishings."

Spared No Facts

Regent Chairman Harold M. Wilkie, who led the fight against the deposed president, spared no facts or figures. He cited items running into thousands of dollars—ranging from mattresses and linen bed-sheets to sandwich cutters and plush davenport.

In his defensive argument, Dr. Frank said that he and his family would have been much happier in a modest apartment. He described the official residence, when he took it over, as old, unfurnished and badly in need of repairs. "It will always be a burden to any president who occupies it, unless he has inherited great wealth, which I did not," he said.

Terms of the Olin Endowment

provide that the residence shall be returned to the estate if the president does not use it.

Vast Proportions

The house itself is of vast proportions. It sits conspicuously in the core of a wealthy residential district known as University Heights. Winter snows sculpt white, fantastic models around the red-brick, two-story building. In the summer it resembles a cloistered lodge, sheltered by tall poplars and sharply-clipped hedges.

The interior is vast, ornate and polished. High, heavy oak-timbered ceilings crown the reception room, which is furnished with over-stuffed and staid Chippendale chairs, a carved radio set and sundry decorations. Other rooms are dressed in a more modern tone, spotless and soundproof.

The Dykstras said they have made plans for living quarters beyond July 1.

At present they have a suite in the Memorial Union building on the lower campus. Later in May they will occupy the residence of Dr. Joel Stebbins, university astronomer, who is leaving for South America to study a solar eclipse.

Pageantry Marks Reopening of Noted Old Villa Louis at Prairie du Chien

Prairie du Chien—Glamorous memories of the past lived again yesterday as the Villa Louis, historic, century-old mansion of Colonel Hercules Dousman was reopened with pageantry and festivities under the direction of the local League of Women Voters.

Overcast skies and occasional rain did not dampen the spirit of the team which marked the formal re-opening. More than 700 persons from Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa filled the glass enclosed veranda and the hallways of the huge mansion on the site of the first American fortification on the upper Mississippi.

Gay summer gowns of the modern period contrasted colorfully with the gown of the gay nineties period which were known by many of the hostesses. Girls dressed in the silk, satin and brocade frocks of pioneer days added charm to the rooms which have been restored with original furnishings.

Rich in art treasures and historic interest, Villa Louis was built 90 years ago by Colonel Dousman, pioneer fur trader associated with John Jacob Astor and one of the northwest's first millionaires. The spacious structure overlooks the Mississippi.

The mansion's luxurious appointments made it a center for the earliest aristocracy of the upper Mississippi. There was a private racing track and a swimming pool. The first piano brought into Wisconsin stood in the Dousman home.

These treasures and many others still held the enraptured interest of the guests yesterday. The century-old ice-house, the ponds, the fountains, and the famous wine cellar which held many bottles of rare imported wine were of particular interest to the huge throng.

Present were Mrs. F. R. Bigelow and Mrs. E. B. Young of St. Paul, Minn., granddaughters of Madame H. L. Dousman. Both were active in the recent restoration of the home and in its presentation to the city of Prairie du Chien as a museum in 1936.

When the U. S. army, in 1908, called for bids for its first airplane, the amounts asked ranged from $850 to $10,000,000.

Favor Wholesale Price In Water Service Plan

Furnishing water to the town of Grand Chute at a wholesale price with the town retailing it to consumers will be recommended in a report of the water commission to the council Wednesday evening. The recommendation was made by the commission at a regular meeting Saturday morning following a joint meeting was held with town officials last week.

The town asked for water and sewer service from the city recently and the request was referred to the board of public works for study. The matter of water service also was referred to the commission.

FOR 20 years, Al Taft has been repairing as many as 200 short circuits per day. Around him 11,000 volts lurk. It's a tense job that will test digestion if anything will! Here's Al's comment: "Working among high-voltage cables isn't calculated to help digestion. But mine doesn't give me trouble. I smoke Camels with my meals and after. Camels set me right!" Smoking Camels speeds up the flow of digestive fluids — alkaline digestive fluids — that mean so much to your sense of well-being. Camels are so mild, they are better for steady smoking. And Camels are gentle to your throat—always.

SUNDAY'S RESULTS
Grangers 9, Black Creek 4.
Other games postponed: wet grounds.

OUTAGAMIE COUNTY BASEBALL leaguers pried the lid off the season Sunday afternoon with only one of the three scheduled games being played, Greenville Grange and Black Creek. The game had to be taken to the Greenville Merchant diamond and the Grangers copped by a 9 to 4 score. The other league contests were postponed because the diamonds and outfielders were quagmires.

Although the teams both showed the effects of limited practice, especially Black Creek which turned in eight errors, the game was interesting and featured the pitching of Archie Kuzenski, a big, 6-foot left hander, starting his second season on the mound. He fanned 16 of the Creekers and allowed only 5 hits. At the plate he got three singles in four tries.

Joe Fitzgerald and Miller tossed for the losers and although they allowed 11 hits the errors by their mates did a lot of damage. Joe contributed to his own hard luck once by tossing the ball into centerfield trying to get a runner at second.

Black Creek scored in the first frame but the Grangers evened matters in the third. In the fourth the Grangers started a big rally that drove Fitzgerald from the mound and enabled them to take a 5 to 1 lead. The fifth frame saw Black Creek get back three of the runs after which things were quiet until the eighth when the Grangers got to Miller for four more runs.

Next Sunday the Grangers will invade Shiocton where it is reported the villagers are taking their baseball seriously and have imported "Smoky" Lathrop, former New London hurling ace.

Badgers Tied for Lead in Big Ten Ball Loop

Chicago—Three late starters, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Indiana, were tied today at the top of the Big Ten championship baseball standings.

The Badgers, rained out of their scheduled conference opener at Michigan April 21, ran into wet weather again Friday, but made up for it Saturday by winning a doubleheader from Chicago, 9 to 2 and 3 to 2. Rain also kept Minnesota and Iowa idle Friday but the Gophers, entered into the tie situation by winning two games Saturday, 4 to 2 and 5 to 3.

Indiana opened its league campaign by shutting out Purdue, 3 to 0, Friday and followed up Saturday with an 8 to 3 victory over the Boilermakers.

Michigan, the defending champion, scored its second victory of the season over Ohio State, 4 to 3, Saturday, and remained in the running for another title with a record of three games won and one lost.

Madison Five Cops at Elks Bowling Tourney

Wausau — (3) — The Kennedy Daughters, Madison, won the five-man team championship of the silver jubilee tournament of the Wisconsin Elks which closed yesterday.

The Madison team posted a score of 2,795 pins. Honors in the doubles events went to Krause and Kreuzer, Wausau who rolled a total of 1,197. J. Kasper, Manitowoc, copped the singles crown with a mark of 731. Ted Krause, Wausau, won the all events title with a score of 1,870.

Manitowoc Bowler Rolls Perfect Game; Wins State Singles With 754

Manitowoc — (3) — Roman Frieder, Manitowoc, copped the regular singles crown with a brilliant mark of 754 which set a new all-time tourney mark as competition in the thirty-fifth annual Wisconsin State Bowling association tournament ended last night.

He shattered the record held by Hank Marino, Milwaukee, who rolled 749 in the 1933 state meet at La Crosse.

Not content with that accomplishment, the sturdy Manitowoc bowler entered bowling's hall of fame with a 300 game, the second game in last night's series. His other games were 227 and 227. It was the third perfect game in tournament history. Another record was blasted in the 875 team division by the Piffner

RAY SCHUELLER SCORES AS GRANGERS WIN FIRST GAME
Greenville Grange baseball team won the first and only game played in the Outagamie County league yesterday when it defeated Black Creek, 9 to 4, on the Greenville Merchant diamond. Other games were called because of wet grounds at Dale and Hortonville. The picture shows Ray Schueller scoring in the fourth inning as the Grangers started a rally that drove Joe Fitzgerald from the mound. ## Brews Hold Lead By Slim Margin

Millers' Victory Sunday Leaves Them Half Game Behind Milwaukee

Chicago—(3)—Gabby Street's St. Paul club, figured to be up there battling for the American Association title, is having all kinds of trouble keeping out of the cellar.

After losing a 7 to 6 decision in 10 innings to their arch rivals, the Minneapolis Millers, on Saturday, the seventh-place Saints took another smacking yesterday—a 4 to 0 whitewashing, for their sixth defeat in nine games. With 10,314 home fans looking on, the Saints were held to five hits by Belve Bean, while the Millers combed Babe Phelps and Hugo Klaerner for 12.

Harry Taylor led the attack on the St. Paul pair with two doubles and a single.

The victory left the Millers only a half game behind the pace-setting Milwaukee Brewers. The Brewers and Kansas City were kept idle by rain yesterday, but the tail-end Blues came from behind Saturday to win, 6 to 5.

Louisville's Colonels, who had scored three straight shutouts, yesterday, but it was a home run in the thirteenth inning that gave the Mud Hens a 3 to 2 triumph.

Roy Cullenbine made only one hit for Toledo against Columbus yesterday, but it was a home run in the thirteenth inning that gave the Mud Hens a 3 to 2 triumph.

National Pin Tourney Will Close Tuesday

New York—(4)—Fifty-one teams, the last of 4,017 entered, will make a final bid for the thirty-seventh annual American Bowling congress 5-man championship, tonight. None of the New York or New Jersey teams are expected to cause the leaders any trouble especially as the 3,118 total which holds first place is the third highest in tournament history.

High 10 leaders in all divisions maintained their positions yesterday, a 701 total by Eddie Keenan, Elizabeth, N. J., topping the card. The 34-day tourney will be concluded late tomorrow afternoon, with the wrap-up of the doubles and singles schedule.

Green Bay West Track Team Downs Oshkosh

Green Bay—Coach Ivan W. Cahoon's Green Bay West track team opened its outdoor season with an impressive 73 to 43 victory over Oshkosh last Saturday for the nineteenth consecutive dual triumph won by a team coached by Cahoon.

West won six events and Oshkosh five with another first divided, but the locals scored more seconds and thirds, including a slam in the broad jump.

Elmer Tenow of West and Robert Nolle of the victors shared individual honors in the meet. Tornow won the shotput and discus and Nolle finished first in the 100 and 220 yard dashes.

Manitowoc Bowler Rolls Perfect Game; Wins State Singles With 754

Manitowoc — (3) — Roman Frieder, Manitowoc, copped the regular singles crown with a brilliant mark of 754 which set a new all-time tourney mark as competition in the thirty-fifth annual Wisconsin State Bowling association tournament ended last night.

He shattered the record held by Hank Marino, Milwaukee, who rolled 749 in the 1933 state meet at La Crosse.

Not content with that accomplishment, the sturdy Manitowoc bowler entered bowling's hall of fame with a 300 game, the second game in last night's series. His other games were 227 and 227. It was the third perfect game in tournament history.

Another record was blasted in the 875 team division by the Piffner

The American Legion state bowling tournament came to a close last night on the Elks alleys when the last of the 7,347 games rolled since the meet opened in April, was scored.

First place in the team event was won by the Beutler Legionnaires of Racine with a 2,891 count while the Tired Boys of Neenah, Joe Muench's team, took second place on a check of the scores which added 30 pins to Neenah's previously announced score. The Neenah team's total was 2,873. A new fifth place team appeared over the weekend when the Petersen post, Sun Prairie, rolled a 2,846.

E. P. Frey and Hank Marino rolled into first place in doubles with a 1,329 score, the event being the only one Marino really tried in when he appeared here a week ago. A Wauwatosa team joined the leaders over the weekend with a 1,203 count good for third place.

A Missner's 681 in singles was good for the title with A. Petersen of Fond du Lac second with a 665. Messner is from Beloit.

Missner's 1,855 in all-events also brought him that title. High game honors went to W. Gebhard of Racine and Leslie C. Smith, Appleton, with 273 scores.

Yesterday's kegling saw teams from Sun Prairie, Fond du Lac, Madison, Wauwatosa, Cudahy, Antioch, Beaver Dam, Stevens Point, New Holstein and Rollins.

CHURCH LOOP TO MEET
The Church softball league will meet at 7:30 this evening at the Y. M. C. A. to draw a schedule, select umpires, discuss rules and purchase bats and balls. The league will open its season next week playing on the Roosevelt school diamond. Howard Reichelt is president of the circuit.

Lumberjacks of Stevens Point who crashed the maples for a count of 2,356 to top the mark of 2,335, set by Langes of Mayville.

The 875 team division championship went to the Old Imperial Beers of Green Bay who posted a score of 3,112. The score of 2,740, rolled by the E. M. B. A. Overheads, Milwaukee, was good enough for first place in the 775 team event.

W. Fogler and Glenn Scott, Milwaukee, combined a total of 1,293 to take the regular doubles crown. Another Milwaukee duo, C. Rahm-E. Shidell took the 320 doubles championship with 1,208. L. Erslund, Middleton, won the 175 singles with 652. Mike Malouf, Milwaukee, won the senior all events. His mark was 2,009. Steve Bogner, Milwaukee, won the junior event with 1,783.

Eagles Bowling Meet
Kenosha—(3)—McCarthy's Miller High Life's Kenosha, won the annual state Eagles bowling tournament title last night with a mark of 2,955. The Kenosha team was awarded the title when 12 teams from Beaver Dam and Hartford failed to top its mark in the tournament finals.

E. Greenow — H. Gutormsen, Kenosha, won the doubles title with a total of 1,230. Charlie Milloy of Kenosha kegled 635 to annex the singles crown; L. Steiner of Clinton, Wis., copped the all-events with 1,361 pins.

Old-Time Hurler Gives One Hit in One Inning

Chicago—(3)—There still is life in the 50-year-old right arm of Grover Cleveland Alexander.

The one-time major league star, hero of the St. Louis Cardinals' first World series triumph—over the New York Yankees in 1926—allowed only one hit in the one inning he pitched for the Springfield, Ill., Empires yesterday against the Spencer Coals, a Chicago semi-pro team.

It was old Pete's first bit of action since recovering from a leg infection which threatened to shelve him for the rest of his days.

Mark New Record in Doubles Event

Fort Wayne Duo Bowls 1,230 in Women's International Tourney

Rochester, N. Y.—(3)—A new world's record for the women's doubles event, 1,230, faced Milwaukee, Syracuse and Dayton singles and double keggers as they took the alleys today in the Women's International Bowling congress.

A Fort Wayne, Ind., duo, Loranna Franke and Garnette Weber, set the mark in a weekend bombardment of the maples that brought a general shakeup in the leaders.

Rochester, Elmira, South Bend and Amsterdam teams have won one hundred more points to attain to get a top berth in the division after the stellar exhibitions of Milwaukee squads who last night took first, second and majority of the positions inside the first 20 in an enthusiastic celebration of the night designated in honor of their city.

Led by the Heil Uniform Heat crew with a 2685, just 103 pins better than the 2-week old mark of the Camel Sodas of St. Louis, the Milwaukee women moved into the top positions en masse. The Kornitz Pure Oil five took over second place with a good 2591. The team scored 906, 908 and 871.

All five members of the team went over the 500 mark with Lorraine Baldy, Milwaukee city champ, setting the pace with a 554. Charline Terzan hit 540; Irma Jones 528 and Gladys Light and Emmie Dobner each 527.

In taking second place, the Kornitz Pure Oil group scored consistent games of 814, 891, 886.

Vike Tracksters Going to Ripon

Denney's Squad Seeks Second Dual Meet Victory Tomorrow

Coach Art Denney's Lawrence college track and field team will show in its second dual meet this season at Ripon tomorrow afternoon. The meet originally was scheduled for last Saturday but postponed to Tuesday at the request of Ripon Coaches.

Lawrence is a heavy favorite to romp through the event. Ripon, judging from its showing against Beloit last week, is suffering from a dearth of track talent although the Crimson probably will be better with an extra week's practice. The Crimson squad is led by John Pray, high jumper and middle distance runner.

The Vikes again will rely on Vande Walle, Graf, Beck and Gerlach in the dashes, Vande and Gerlach in the 440, Sam Leete in the hurdles, high jump and broad jump. Kapp in the shot and discus, Schubert and Fulton in the two mile, Schubert and Fulton in the two mile, Schubert and Grode in the mile, Grode in the half, and Fritz in the javelin.

After Tuesday's meet Lawrence will show at home Saturday for the first time this season in a dual meet with Beloit.

K. of C. Softballers Plan First Practice

Candidates for the Knights of Columbus softball team entered in the Fraternal league will hold their first practice session at 5:45 Tuesday afternoon at the Wilson Junior High school grounds. Clem Williamson, manager, will be in charge of the practice. The league opens next week.

Lawrence tracksters worked out Saturday afternoon whenever they could sandwich an event in between the events of the Appleton-Shawano dual meet.

MANAWA—Two Neopit pitchers, Lefty Kakak and the veteran Joe Dodge, held Manawa to five hits here, Sunday, and the Indians won the opening game of the Wolf Valley baseball league season by a 6 to 2 score. Mickey McGuire, who worked on the mound for Manawa, pitched fairly good ball but wildness kept him in hot water nearly every inning.

Pleshek scored for Neopit in the first inning when he walked, stole second, and counted on Mack's double. Two more were added in the second on passes to Kakak and M. Grignon, Volkman's bad throw, and Mack's second straight hit. E. Lyons' single and Kakak's long two-bagger counted another Redskin runner in the fourth, and the final tallies came in the ninth, when Grignon singled, Mack was passed, Richmond sacrificed, and Spurrer singled to center.

An error on Malloy's grounder to short, followed by a walk to Bohan and Basler's double accounted for Manawa's first run in the opening inning. Volkman tripled to start the second but was left stranded, and the Wolves last tally came in the third without the aid of a hit. Bohan walked, advanced two bases on a pair of wild pitches, and scored on Mack's error.

Menasha - Appleton, postponed; wet grounds.

NEENAH—Neenah Merchants lost a tough ball game to Green Bay, 6-5, in the Northern Valley League opener at Washington park Sunday afternoon. The winning run was made in the tenth inning when the Neenah catcher dropped a third strike and made a wild throw to third base in an attempt to catch a runner.

From the opening pitch by Mayor Edwin A. Kalfas, which was a perfect strike, to the final out, the spectators were treated to an exciting game which saw Jerome and Vandenberg engage in a tight pitching duel. A cold wind from the northeast hampered outfielders.

Neenah and Green Bay both went two innings before crossing the plate. In the third canto, Green Bay counted once on a hit, walk and an error and in the last half of the third Neenah scored three times and took the lead which it kept until the eighth inning. Green Bay picked up two more runs in the sixth, one in the seventh and tied it at five and five in the eighth, when the runner on third stole home, when Jerome forgot himself and took a full windup.

Neenah scored their last two in the fifth and sixth innings, when a single by Jerome scored Cheslock and in the sixth when Zachow singled and Bradish followed with a double.

Outside of the eighth inning boner, Jerome pitched fine ball allowing two hits and striking out ten. Cheslock and Hauke both made some very fine catches in the field for the Neenah team while Radlet played a bang up game at third base for Green Bay. Although both teams were light on the hits, Neenah collecting five and Green Bay two, there were many errors, keeping both pitchers in trouble quite a bit of the time.

Neenah was charged with eight very important errors while Green Bay committed three. Vandenberg pitched a fine game for Green Bay allowing only five hits and striking out nine Neenah batters. The winning run was made in the tenth inning on a dropped third strike by the Neenah catcher and a little later he threw wild to third trying to catch the runner. Ed Gartzke and Allen Bradish made the only extra base knocks for Neenah with a triple and double, respectively. Monahan connected for two bases for the only extra base blow on the Green Bay crew. Although beaten by errors the Neenah team showed that it has the material and will be a team to reckon with in the pennant hunt.

Writer Feels Sick After 117 Mile Per Hour Ride

BY THOBURN WIAIT

INDIANAPOLIS—(P)—Imagine being shot out of a cannon, or riding on a bolt of greased lightning, or dropping 10,000 feet through space with an anchor around your neck.

Then you may get a vague idea of how it feels to streak around the 2 1/2 mile speedway track here at a speed that reaches 133 miles an hour.

Tony Gulotta of Detroit, who has driven 3,800 miles in speedway competition, was twisting gadgets in preparation for the May 31 grind when Joe Copps, publicity director, and your correspondent walked up. "He wants to take a ride," said Joe.

"So he wants to take a ride, does he?" asked Tony.

"Just a little one," I emphasized hastily, not liking the tone of their voices.

Ignorance was bliss. That bliss lasted as long as a snowball in July.

Puts on Crash Helmet
Amid grins and nudges of on-looking wags, I put on a crash helmet and goggles (with what I thought was the fineness of an old hand) and climbed gingerly into Gulotta's creation of metal dynamite.

The huge motor churned into action as quietly as a half dozen bombing planes starting in unison. "Here we go," yelled Tony above the din.

In the next second the pull of the roaring monster slapped my head back into my shoulders. A few more seconds, and we hit 100 miles an hour. . . then faster. . . faster.

I tried to say "uncle," but made a faint, grunt-like noise that stuck in my throat.

Faster. . . faster. The car careened into a turn, seemed certain to plunge into the cement retaining wall. Another terrifying turn. Another breath-taking straightaway.

Thinks of Dead Drivers
Tony jammed down the foot throttle. The raging engine leaped ahead like a demon possessed.

The wind felt like millions of little needles. Everything became blurry. Another turn. . . another straightaway. . . they flashed by quicker than you can say it.

Ghosts of the drivers who have crashed in front of my eyes.

Tony eased up. He turned around and grinned. I sank deep into the seat, unable to crack a smile. We pulled up to the pits.

I started to climb out, but my knees gave way. I felt a great emptiness and a bit sick. The railbirds laughed.

"What did we average?" Tony asked.

"About 117," someone with a stop watch shouted.

"That's definitely out," groaned Tony. His face was sober as a judge's.

Carroll Tracksters
Down Beloit Squad
Beloit—Carroll college trackmen beat out Beloit college in a close finish at Strong stadium Saturday, 66-65. The meet was not decided until the last two events on the program, the broad jump and the 580-yard relay, had been completed.

Barnes, Knobloch and Ellis slammed the pole vault for Carroll, and Gertz, Woleben and Gibson finished in a three-way tie to sweep the high jump for Beloit.

Beloit netters and golfers continued their winning ways when they scored shutout victories over Carroll.

The New York Giants, also whiffed nine and finished on top with a four-hit 3-1 win over the Boston Bees.

Perhaps the most surprising result of the day was that turned in by the Senators over the Athletics. Shortly before announcing the release of Catcher Shanty (Fat Man) Hogan to Indianapolis, Washington won its first victory in five starts against Connie Mack's youngsters, but the Nats had to put on a five-run rally in the ninth before finally doing it, 10-7. Cleveland's battle with the St. Louis Browns was rained out.

Kaukauna, Chuter Teams Show Class In Long Workouts

Kaws Sign Zelinski for Third; Seek Upper Michigan Hurler

TAKING advantage of the first fairly warm weather of the season, Little Chute and Kaukauna baseball teams in the State league held long workouts yesterday afternoon at their respective diamonds.

Over at Kaukauna the Electric City management still is looking for a top ranking hurler now that it has been informed Fuzzy Douglis, who pitched for the team a couple years ago and now coaches the University of Wisconsin squad, will not be available. Strings are out for a hurler from the upper peninsula of Michigan, Manager Howard Bowers reports.

Bowers has announced the signing of Eddie Zelinski for third base duty. He recently returned from Monroe, Tex., where he performed in the Cotton States league and expects to return there next season.

The Kaukauna team now is shaping up fairly well and while it probably will be the smallest aggregation in the circuit, also will be the fastest. For instance, the outfield will show Joe Vils, Manager Bowers and Arnie Kelly. They don't come any shorter, but neither do they come any faster.

Eddie Helms will handle the big mitt at catch, Baldy Eggert will work at first base, Hammy Powell of Menasha at short and Zelinski at third with Von Drashek, Gertz and Schuler, all of Kaukauna, trying for the second base job.

The Kaws will work Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Manager Bowers has announced.

Chuters Look Good
Over at Little Chute Manager George Vanderloop really turned on the heat with a long batting and fielding practice and a five inning game. Because it was fairly warm the hurlers were ordered to heat down and it was a workout that left the team almost ready to tangle with Green Bay's Sox next Sunday.

Three hurlers looked pretty good. Dick Weisgerber showed all kinds of class indicating he'll be tough on the opposition. Bob Lamers and Eddie Schuler also worked and will be used as relief hurlers. Lamers has a hopping fast one and with a little more coaching should produce regularly.

At first bat, Bill Peotter was given the edge over H. Van Dyke because of his hitting. Their fielding is about on a par. Howie Ellis and Pug Dombrowski are battling for the second base position while at short Bongers appears to have the job clinched. Baker Versteegen seems to be slated for the third base post.

In the outfield Pete Wildenberg has been working in left, Eddie Collickson in center and Lucasen right. However, the infield berths aren't definite for LaVern Van Dyke has been showing class there and also behind the plate. Jack

NEW YORK—(P)—Si Burdick, sports editor of the Dayton News, is in town with the best golf story of the year. . . Seems Alex Campbell, veteran Dayton golf pro, was paying his first visit to Florida. . . Two days after he arrived at Sarasota, he went down with appendicitis. . . They rushed Alex to a hospital and poured the ether on him. . . "Count to one hundred," ordered the medico, as the drug began to take effect. . . Alex obdiligently began but stopped when he got to 42. . . "Forty-two—what a hell of a score to go out in," he murmured as he lapsed into unconsciousness. . . Si says you can't sue him if the story isn't true.

Lighly began but stopped when he got to 42. . . "Forty-two—what a hell of a score to go out in," he murmured as he lapsed into unconsciousness. . . Si says you can't sue him if the story isn't true.

Casey Stengel still roots for the Dodgers. . . (And why not, at $15,000 for a summer's yelling?) . . . Attention, Washington: Reports list Johnny Murphy, Jake Powell and Bump Hadley as Yankee trading material. . . (Stan Harris has been keen on Murphy for some time). . . Sing Sing will increase its "major sports" curriculum to four next winter, adding ice hockey to football, baseball and basketball. . . (P. S. There is no recruiting). . . After Pomponio's flop in the Wood Memorial Saturday, you'd naturally expect his derby odds to soar. . . Well, they did. . . He's 10 to 1 now and you can have him. . . Giant battling sling ended the day at Schacht served 'em up in hitting practice. . . Al hopes the Jints will remember this if they get into the world's series.

Time marches on and so does Tommy Henrich. . . Saturday afternoon Tommy Guest-columned in a New York newspaper that he was getting a real thrill out of being with the Yankees. . . Later the same afternoon he was across the Hudson pinch-hitting for the Newark Bears (who are not in the American league). . . Tommy was taking batting practice with the Yankees when he learned he had been optioned to Newark. . . Business Manager Ray Kennedy hustled him through the Holland tube in time to get into the game with the Buffalo Bisons. . .

Hymie Caplan, the fight manager, worked in Jack Torrance's corner the other night. . . When the 255-pound giant lay prone on the floor after being polished off by Abe Simon, his manager, Herb Brodie, said: "Go out there and pick up him Hymie. . . "Not me," said Hymie (with his hands) "I'm ruptured. . . The ears of Prof. Percy Beard (Florida track coach) must be blazing. . . For all his harangue at Clearwater, those Dodgers haven't stolen a base in nine tries.

In the first day's singles Budge trounced Nakano, 6-1, 6-1, 6-0 while Parker followed with a surprise conquest of Yamagishi, 6-3, 2-6, 8-6, 6-1.

Budge and Gene Mako, Los Angeles, national doubles champions, clinched the series with a 6-0, 6-1, 6-4, win over Yamagishi and Nakano Saturday.

Contracts were distributed to the players yesterday and Manager Vanderloop announced that infield practices will be held Tuesday and Thursday and a batting drill on Friday.

Strick is another outfielder who may win a place.

During the five inning game Bob Lamers cracked a homer over the scoreboard, the first of the season. Van Dyke, Wildenberg, Peotter, Dombrowski and Versteegen cracked doubles.

Competition in the second round already had been assured through Saturday's doubles win. In last Friday's opener Budge and Parker also turned in two singles triumphs.

Parker, chop-stroke artist, yesterday posted a convincing victory over Fumiteru Nakano, 6-0, 6-3, 6-2. Budge's powerful shots blasted Juro Yamagishi, Japanese champion

EVE'S ORCHARD

By MARGARET WIDDEMER

SYNOPSIS: Eve Mannersfield goes back to her 200-year-old house and orchard in Connecticut after five years in New York. She plans to rent, marry gay, city-loving Denny and return to Manhattan. "Uncle" Henry moves in to help her run the place. Then come Peter, the penniless artist, his languid wife Marilyn and their serious young son Judge. Eve's neighbor, calm, practical George Cleveland, who loves her, comes over with his father evenings. One day George tells her the renting agent said Eve had given up the house and the renting. Eve denies this excitedly.

Chapter 26
PLACID EVENINGS
MRS. MORTON, trim and tense in her small glass-fronted office between the post office and the grocery, said in dismay: "Mrs. Featherstone said so. She was out walking and I met her. She said you were all too happy there to want to rent. I supposed you thought it would be as easy to go on with the old business your aunt was in."

Eve turned to George. "There must be some mistake. She couldn't. But as she said it she knew that Marilyn's fatal inconsequence might have made just that mistake possible."

"I'm terrible sorry," Mrs. Morton said. "It's a shame, and with the renting season almost over, but I'll do everything I possibly can to rent it for you."

Marilyn, lying among her pillows and papers, with the breakfast tray still across her knees and the rose satin wrap Molly De Forster had given her huddled about her, was first uncomprehending and then in an agony of penitence.

"Oh, darling," she mourned, "what a horrible thing to do to you. I never dreamed it could make the least bit of difference. And when I said to you, didn't you love our being here, and wouldn't you rather we kept on like this all summer, you said you were so glad we liked it and wished we could... and I thought that meant you didn't want to rent..."

Marilyn was too horrified and miserable for Eve to do anything but say, "Well, there's nothing to be done now; it may rent still."

Peter was more horrified than Eve. He even volunteered to go low-brow and do some book covers.

"That ought to help. And Uncle Henry says Judge ought to have more pleasures. I'll buy him a bicycle and give you the rest for extra rent," said Peter generously.

Uncle Henry and Peter and George held a council of war with Eve that night in Uncle Henry's end of the parlors. She felt one of her recurrent waves of guilt about concealing her intention of marrying Denny as soon as he came back. But she mustn't talk about it. It wasn't certain. And when they did marry, now that the country weather was getting more heavenly every day, Denny would probably just settle in her with her till fall; he liked the Featherstones well enough. So she said nothing to their assurances that with the help of Peter's money and Uncle Henry's greenstuffs they could not carry on well.

"And with Denny's help," she said irrelevantly to herself, "we could afford a tennis club membership..."

Seeing her so bright-eyed and flushed and content, George Cleveland and Henry De Remer smiled at each other, relieved.

Bridge Or Anagrams
Marilyn called to Peter lovingly from the fire in the front room. "Darling, here," darling Daisy Cleveland simply champing for his chess."

The older Cleveland, sitting near her with his usual air of having all the time in the world, smiled benignly at Marilyn, stretched in her chair with an arm around her little boy. Peter smiled and crossed to to

Chilton Jayvees Defeat Kaukauna Thinclads Squad

Kaw Second Team Loses
Opening Meet 50 1-2
To 48 1-2

Kaukauna—In the first track meet of its kind between the two schools, the Chilton junior varsity nosed out the Kaukauna second team 50 to 48 on the high school athletic field here Saturday.

Hertel, Chilton star, raced in with victories in the 100-yard dash and half-mile, pushed the 8-pound shot out farther than anyone else, and grabbed a third in the broad jump to make himself high man of the meet with 16 points. Schneider, his teammate, won the 200-yard dash, quarter-mile, and broad jump for a total of 15 points. Meyer of Kaukauna won both hurdles in contributing 10 points to his team's total.

Organized at Kaukauna High school this year for the first time, the junior varsity track team had its first taste of outside competition against Chilton in Saturday's meet. The contest drew a crowd of young athletes, most of them freshmen and sophomores, who need more experience and maturity before they can be considered likely material for the varsity team. The mile is dropped from their schedule of events and the hurdle races shortened.

List Results
The results in the various events are as follows: 100-yard dash—Hertel (C), first; Dohr (C), second; Block (K), third. Time 11.8.

220-yard dash—Schneider (C), first; Steffens (K), second; Weeks (C), third. Time 29.

120-yard low hurdles—Meyer (K), first; Gasch (C), second; Dohr (C), third. Time 15.6.

70-yard high hurdles—Meyer (K), first; Gasch (C), second; Dohr (C), third. Time 9.2.

440-yard dash—Schneider (C), first; Wolfe (K), second; Steffens (K), third. Time 61.

880-yard run—Hertel (C), first; McDermid (K), second; Nelson (K), third. Time 21.7.

Shotput—Hertel (C), first; Kersten (K), second; Andrzejski (K), third. Distance 36 feet 5 inches.

Discus—A. Hooyman (K), first; Kersten (K), second; Block (K), third. Distance 81 feet.

Broad jump—Schneider (C), first; A. Hooyman (K), second; Hertel (C), third. Distance 16 feet 5 inches.

High jump—Dohr (C), first; McDermid (K), second; Kersten (K), third. Height 4 feet 10 inches.

Pole vault—Willeite (C), R. Derrus and B. Busse (K), tied for first. Height 7 feet 11 inches.

440-yard relay won by Chilton. Time 55.2.

2 Traffic Offenders Fined at Kaukauna

Kaukauna—Al Wille, route 6, Green Bay, was fined $5 and costs of $4.75 by Judge Abe Goldin Saturday when he pleaded guilty to a charge of speeding. He was arrested earlier in the week on Draper street. Officers reported he was driving 39 miles an hour.

John Quarde, Chicago, paid a fine of $1 and costs of $4.75 before Judge Goldin Saturday for ignoring a stop sign. He was arrested Friday night at the corner of Main avenue and Second street.

Hold Last Rites for Joseph Green, Sr.

Kaukauna—Funeral services for Joseph Green, Sr., who died last Wednesday night in his home on route 2, Kaukauna, were held Saturday morning at the St. Nicholas church in Freedom with the Rev. A. W. Van Dyke in charge. Burial was in the parish cemetery.

Bearers were Joe Conrad, Ralph Moehrine, Melvin Siebers, Harvey Siebers, Harold Van Dyke, and Milton Vandehy, all grandsons of Mr. Green.

Two Parks are Opened To Public at Kaukauna

Kaukauna—Summer became official over the weekend with the opening of the two public parks, Riverside and LaFollette, and the appearance of the first sizeable crop of golfers at the Kaukauna Golf course.

New officers for the golf club will be elected at the annual meeting of the directors Wednesday night in the municipal building.

Election of delegates to the spring conference this month in Marinette will be held at a regular meeting of the American Legion auxiliary tonight in the Legion clubrooms.

Loyal Order of Moose, Chapter No. 553, will hold a regular meeting tonight in the clubrooms on Second street.

Members of the Holy Cross Court No. 309, Men Catholic Order of Foresters, will meet at 8 o'clock tonight in the Holy Cross church hall.

The choir of the Trinity Evangelical Lutheran church will hold a rummage sale next Saturday, May 8, in the voting booth on Dodge street. Miss Martha Buelow is in charge of arrangements.

EVE'S ORCHARD

get the chessmen. Judge got up and went into the back room to Uncle Henry. The group had settled into its accustomed evening routine.

For routine it had come to be, a settled evening arrangement of understood placid comfort. Both Cleveland seemed domestically inclined men. Mrs. Cleveland had tired of the country after a week of rain and was still obstinately at the Park avenue apartment. Her son was busy with his orchard and small fruits; her husband was a fanatic golfer, and his favorite club within driving distance of George's house. So he played chess with Peter the three weekend nights and George, drifting in with him, read the papers, or did mathematics about genetics on a round table where Uncle Henry and Judge carried on games of checkers or hunted for stations on Eve's little radio.

Both father and son behaved in general as if this were where they most liked to be.

"At home my wife always retires after dinner unless we're doing something social," Mr. Cleveland said apologetically. "I don't know when George and I have had so much solid comfort as sitting round here. Hope we aren't overdoing it."

Everybody assured them sincerely that they were not.

"And it is such a comfort to have enough for bridge or anagrams whenever you like," Eve and Marilyn agreed. The battered box of letters, the cards and chess and checkers were scarcely ever put away.

The big old dictionary from the attic, in its iron stand, its calf covers coming off, its vintage that of Eve's grandfather, stood permanently in the niche behind the parlor fireplace. Sometimes the whole group was coaxed into a game of anagrams, Judge and all. There had been jokes last night about a return match, after Peter had won over everyone by six three-syllable words. He and old Mr. Cleveland were the best players.

"It's like the homes in library books," Judge said. "I didn't ever know they were real before."

It was the middle of May before Denny got back from the road. Six long weeks. He called up on top of a letter that had given no hint of it to say he was actually here, actually coming out this Friday afternoon.

Eve went over his room lovingly; had she forgotten and left the daffodils on the marble table between the windows; the funny 1880 pillow shams that belonged on the towering elaborate walnut bed with a package of cigarettes and an ash tray beside it and the new novel Mr. Cleveland had brought over night before last.

Everything. The wallpaper was certainly a disgrace, but that couldn't be helped. The room was furnished exactly as it had been since Eve's grandfather bought it new for his bride, and Denny, who had seen the tall marble-topped bureau, with its long glass sunken between the side drawers, had pronounced it priceless. "You must let me sleep in that bed," he'd said.

"And if you come in and wake me up, you'll probably find I've gone side-sleepers and a derby," she laughed now as she thought of it, excitedly. Tonight he would sleep here, and they would laugh about her "period furniture" together.

"Eve—You're Beautiful!"

Too restless to stand still, she went out and gathered more daffodils in the back garden, went up and down the walks to see what had come up since yesterday, and finally came to anchor in the portico in the rear.

Standing there on its high eighteenth-century floor, she drew a long breath of delight, looking down on lawn and orchard. All this heavenly outdoors to show Denny. Time and Uncle Henry had done wonders with the tumbled wilderness the Jennings had left behind.

The long lawn stretched clipped and green to the tangle of fruit canes against the southern slope where the orchard climbed. Below them was the mat of darker green leaves that was the old strawberry bed. The high rosebushes, leafing out now, bordered the walk to the orchard; thick outside them flowered the two long ribbons of daffodils that had always been there.

Eve herself, standing in the May wind, was spring-like in the soft close-clinging green wool with a yellow braid girdle, the high cup of velvet of creamy silk. She had brushed her hair to the top of her head in a new fashion, with a daring plume of rings across the top, to see how Denny would like her that way. Peter, straying by on his way to get a detective magazine in the village for Marilyn, said, "You look as if you were understudying the daffodils. Eve—you're beautiful." In his pleasant impersonal artist fashion.

"There are simply thousands of 'daffodils,' Eve said happily. "Isn't it incredible how persistent flowers are? They've just gone on and on blooming maybe a hundred years, for all I know. And oh, Peter, my apple trees are in bud. I was down through the orchard yesterday, and they'll be in full bloom in practically a minute now. I'd forgotten that daffodils could come from anywhere but a basket on the corner, or the florist's if you were extravagant."

"What I admire is the lawn," said Peter proudly. "Mowed by my own hand."

"It was heavenly good of you. And better yet to do the parlor floor. In fact, what with Judge weeding the vegetable bed and you doing mowing and floor-waxing, the place looks like a gentleman's elegant country seat, at least in spots."

"Well, as the neighboring nobility and gentry insisted on spending all their evenings here something had to be done about that floor, Marilyn told me," said Marilyn's obedient husband.

"They're a comfort!" Eve said. "Think of their giving Adriano orders to lend Uncle Henry anything he needs in the way of garden tools. And finding that wallpaper in their attic for Judge's bedroom."

"Personally I think he was all right in with us always up quick as a flash when Marilyn wanted anything in the night," said Peter placidly. "But the kid's so proud of it it's cute to see him."

"He says he sleeps better," Eve said reluctantly.

"Oh, very likely," said Peter. He grinned, dismissing the subject as unimportant.

Denny, unchanged and jovious, arrives for the weekend, tomorrow.

Name Successful Bidder on Bonds At Clintonville

Chicago Firm Designated
For $50,000 Issue to Finance
Sewage Plant

Clintonville—Channer Securities Co. of Chicago was the successful bidder on the $50,000 bond issue by which the city of Clintonville will finance its share of the cost of the $80,000 sewage disposal plant, a PWA project. The closing bid was $50,250, plus accrued interest at 3 per cent, plus the cost of having the bonds printed plus the expense of the legal opinion on the bonds.

This opinion was furnished by the firm of Libas, Spooner and Quarles of Milwaukee. The auction for the bond sale was conducted at a special meeting of the city council at 7:30 Friday evening at the city hall.

The bonds are all of $1,000 denomination, two bonds to be retired each year for the first 10 years beginning Jan. 1, 1938; and three bonds to be retired annually for the next 10 years. Other bidders on the bond issue were the Clintonville National Bank and the Dairyman's State Bank of this city; The Milwaukee Company; Harley, Hayden and Co., T. E. Joiner and Co., Paine, Webber and Co., Bartlett, Knight and Co., all of Chicago.

The regular May meeting of the city council will be held Tuesday evening, when bids will be opened on the squad car for the local police department. The car is to be a coach equipped with a spotlight, road light, bullet proof windshield, gun rack, police siren, police sign, flasher and armored radiator protector. This equipment is optional and up to final decision by the aldermen. The city has also reserved the right to reject any or all bids.

Henry Johnson and Leroy Shepard spent Saturday and Sunday with friends in Madison.

Franklin Haven of this city, a senior at Oshkosh State Teachers college, is a member of the college A-Capella choir, which recently completed a tour of the southern part of the state and presented its concert over WTMJ, Milwaukee broadcasting station. Haven, who is the son of Mrs. Stella Haven, sings second tenor in the choir.

Methodist Foreign Missionary society will meet at the home of Mrs. William Schumacher on Tuesday afternoon, May 4. The program will be in charge of Mrs. Paul Wirth.

Mrs. Herman Nass, S. Bennett street, will entertain the Amity Division of the Congregational Dorcas society at the home Tuesday afternoon.

Bethany Ladies Aid society and Christus Lutheran Aid society will hold their May meetings on Wednesday afternoon at their respective church parlors.

Royal Neighbors of America will meet Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Harry Barker on Waukegan street.

Salem Evangelical Ladies Aid society will be entertained Thursday afternoon, May 6, at the home of Mrs. Charles Kieckhefer in Bear Creek.

James Martin, a student at Milwaukee State Teachers' college, spent the weekend at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Martin, in this city.

About 100 persons attended the reception for new members of the Clintonville Methodist church on Friday evening. A covered dish supper was followed by a program, which included ensemble singing led by Miss Edith Gray; seltzer solos by Miss Helen Bucholz; declamation "On Being Clinicked" by Miss Beverly Winchester; the address of welcome by Otto Olen and the response on behalf of the new members was given by Douglas Simonds.

Mrs. Carl Rulseh was hostess to a group of friends at her home Friday evening. Two tables of bridge were played with honors awarded to Mrs. James Kuester and Mrs. Walter Sievers.
